Just before noon the new cruiser Derolt came into the roads with two prooms made fast to the rigging, indicating that the navy has another ship that can sweep the seas. She circled around the fleet and steamed out for Baltimore.

Tonight the men of the San Francisc own the earth, and they have a fence around it. In every race in which their crews rowed today they came off victo-rious. When the San Francisco's six-oared gig came sweeping across the line in the first race, leaving the Philadelphia, Blake, Chicago, and two Russians to come in in the order named, there was a howl of joy, and when in the second even the San Francisco barge carried off the little black flag the howl grew to a prolonged roar. Then, after something of a tussle with the white-shirted men of the Partridge, the San Francisco's whaleboat headed the procession of the struggling crews, the roar became a whirlwind, and, finally, when the race with the Baltimore's dingy re-sulted in an unbroken series of victo-

Chicago, April 19.—|By the Associated Press.] At the conclusion of the World's Fair the monster Krupp gun, the largest piece of ordnance in the world, will be presented to Chicago by Herr Krupp and mounted on a fort to be built on Lake Michigan, opposite Hyde Park, permission for the construction of which was secured at Washington today. Tne Lights Turned On in the Manufacture CHICAGO, April 19.-[By the Associated Press.] Tonight the great glass dome of the Manufactures building at the World's Fair blazed out in unexpected glory, the electric lights being lit up for the first time.

The most novel wholesale moneygrabbing scheme that has been brought to light in Chicago in many a day is said to be in operation upon World's Fair exhibitors by the railway switch-Fair exhibitors by the railway switchmen in the great outlying mazes of tracks at Grand Crossing, South Chicago, and elsewhere. The abuse had a queer origin, beginning, it is said, with some of the shrewd Germans that are installing exhibits for Germany and German merchants. There has been a great rivalry between the Germans and the French since the installation and they began to see who would get in order first, and it is asserted that the Germans bribed the switchmen to put in the cars containing the German exhibit first. The upshot vas that the German exhibit made surprising progress, while the French-men kicked their heels and fumed. This beginning, it is said, has resulted in a systematic scheme of blackmailing by the switchmen, which, now that it has been made public, will probably be stopped at once.

CHICAGO, April 19.—[By the Associated Press.] Half-dressed guards rushed from the service building at the World's Fair grounds at 11 o'clock to-ward the Manufactures building. For hours the rain pelted down on the roof of the big building or was driven in sheets against the building by the mighty winds that had shaken the heavy iron trusses as it struck their coverings. The wind had been high all day, but an hour before midnight it was blowing almost a hurricane. The rain was driven with such force that it was sent through every crack and crevice.
The men worked desperately, and none of the exhibits were damaged, but it was a close call for some of them on the east side of the building, which was

At 11 o'clock this morning Superin tendent McGonigle of the Players Club, not having heard from Mr. Booth, opened the door of his sleep-ing apartment at the club and the tragedian lying bed, unconscious. Dr. St. Clair Smith and Dr. Ransom were immediately summoned, and they gave it as their opinion that he was seized with a paralytic stroke some time during the night. Dis Smith and Ransom re-mained with patient all day, and at midnight it was thought that there were signs of consciousness.

His condition is considered very critical, and the attending physicians say it is very doubtful if Booth recovers. Since Booth gave his last performance at the Academy of Music in Brooklyn, on April 3, 1891, his health has been generally poor. He spent most of his time at the Players' Club. A few weeks ago he appeared to be considerably better, so much so, indeed, that it was reported he would return to the stage next season. He has been in the habit of leaving the club to dine with his daughter once or twice and the has been to the theater a few times. The been to the theater a few times. New York, April 18 .- [By the Associated Press. | The stockholders in the Nicaragua Canal Company will meet tomorrow noon. It is stated Warner Miller will resign as president and that Smith M. Weed of Plattsburg, N. Y., will succeed him. A morning paper will say:
"There is opposition to Miller from the English investors, it is said. As the English investors are particularly interested in discovering Cleveland's views on the subject of the completion of the canal, it is imperative that there should be a change of control and the substitution for Miller of a representative who can treat with of a representative who can treat with the present administration. It is stated the English investors are desirous of completing the canal through the aid of a joint subsidy from the British and American governments. They estimate a joint subsuly from the British and American governments. They estimate that it will require $65,000,000 and say England will guarantee its share. The plan is to insure dividends of 8 per cent. for seven years, and guarantee the repayment of the subsidy in ten years." vears.

EL Paso (Tex.,) April 19 .- [By the Associated Press.] A special received by the Times from Chihuahua, Mexico, says: A fugitive from justice recently returned to the mountains and stirred up a large force of ignorant malcontents, outlaws, and religious fanatics, and, arming them, captured the town of Temaxacic, near Guerrero an important mining town. Little re sistence was offered, but three mer were wounded and the town sacked.

Amalla then went southward toward Tomachica, and had a skirmish with Santa Anna and 300 men, who sur-rendered and afterward joined him. The combined forces under the leader ship of Amalla then marched on the town of Santa Tomas and captured it without resistance.

The rebels then took the town of Guer rero which was garrisoned by volunteer troops, who surrendered without fighting. At this point the federal troops came up, and the rebels fled to Santa Tomas, pursued by the troops. The federal troops were surprised at the latter place, and in the battle that ensued 180 of them were killed or wounded. The rebels suffered very little. The troops were completely routed. Several officers are among the number killed. Reinforcements of government troops arrived after the battle, and will attempt to defend Guerrero. Great excitement prevails, as further fighting is soon expected. Business is at a standstill.

THE ARBITRATORS. Mr. Carter Makes a Statement for Publi

Paris, April 19 - [By Cable and Asociated Press.] Mr. Carter of the counsel for the United States in the proceedings before the Bering Sea ourt of arbitration has made a request that publicity be given the following statement: "Yesterday Mr. Carter complained to Baron de Courcelles, president of the court of arbitra tion, of misrepresentations in his remarks in the report of Friday's proceedings, as published in the London Times. In this report Mr. Carter was represented as referring to the American Judge, Dawson, as a two-penny-half-penny judge. Mr. Carter explained that he said nothing in the least disparagingly of that distinguished and very worthy judge. What he really said was that the United States could not be held responsible for rea sons which judges have assigned for delphia.

On the contrary, he believe that the judgment was sound, and should endeavor to defend it." The judgment spoken of by Mr. Car-ter is the one delivered by Judge Daw-son in the United States District Court of Alaska in the cases of the sch Dolphin, Annie Beck, Grace and Ada which opinion widely reviewed the claims in relation to Bering Sea, and the evidence in support of those claims, and directed that a judgment of for-feiture be issued against the vessels. In resuming his argument before the tribunal of arbitration today Mr. Carter claimed that the seals were not fere nature, but private property when nourished by man. Mr. Carter quoted several cases in support of this con-tention, notably the case of Morgan vs. Earl, which resulted in a decision that deer was private property, similar to bees and swans, being wild until cul-tured. The seals frequenting the Pribylov Islands were, Mr. Carter contended, guarded and cherished by the United States, and, therefore, a species of husbandry was formed giving a property right in the seals.

The line of argument presented by Mr. Carter in support of the claim of American ownership in the seals was so intricate and technical that the presi-

Athens, April 19.—[By Cable and Associated Press.] Zante was shaken again by a severe earthquake at midnight. Slight disturbances were felt almost hourly until noon, when another violent shock caused a repetition of the recent panics. The historic houses of the poets Foscolo and Salomos were tum-bled to ruins. The harbor was thrown into violent emotions, and enormous waves broke over the water front. The British war ship Inflexible of the Mediterranean squadron has arrived with food and tents.

THE PRIMROSE LEAGUE. Annual Gathering of British Conservative

LONDON, April 19.- By Cable and Associated Press. The annual gathering of the Conservative ization known as the Primrose League was held today in the Covent Garden Theater. Lord Salisbury de-livered an address, in which he dealt with the Irish Home-rule Bill. He said the financial proposals of the bill will almost bankrupt Ireland, and heavily burden Great Britain. "But," he continued, "the atrocious feature of the scheme is that the Irish members will sell their freedom for the advantage of Ireland, by forcing the government to give them what they want. THE DOWAGER DUCHESS. She is Not in Jail, but at Home, Danger

LONDON, April 19 .- [By Cable and Associated Press. | The story given out vesterday that the Dowager Duchess of Sutherland, who was sentenced to six weeks' imprisonment in Holloway Jail for contempt of court, had been driven to the prison and locked up was universally printed and believed to have tran-spired. Today, however, the report proves to have been erroneous. After the imposition of the sentence the Dowager obtained from Justice Jeune an order permitting her to go to her villa near Windsor, with the understanding that she would surrender hersel to the authorities today. It is now announced that the Dowager Duchess was taken suddenly ill at 4 o'clock this morning, and a physician was in con-stant attendance on her until 7 o'clock, when her condition was such that he summoned another doctor to consult on the case. Later, doctors sent certifi-cates to the authorities to the effect that the Duchess is too iil to undergo the sentence of imprisonment imposed by Justice Jeune. A section of the press is trying to establish the argument that in sentencing the Dowager Duchess Justice Jeune exceeded his authority, and these papers point out in support of their contention that the paeress is exempt from arrest in civil cases.

Democratic Promises Unfulfilled-Aston ishing Things Visiting Foreigners Will See-The Financial Question.

By Telegraph to The Times SAN FRANCISCO, April 19 .- [By the Associated Press. | The Chronicle will print tomorrow an extended interview with Hon. Whitelaw Reid, who is stopping at Millbrae, the summer home of D. O. Mills.

In response to a question as to what he thought about President Cleveland's appointments, Mr. Reid said: "In the main I fancy he is doing the best he can. Some of them are excellent."

In regard to the appointment of Sen ator Eustis as Ambassador to France he said: "I doubt if the Presiden could have made a better choice if he had searched his party through."

land's course in raising the rank of the English and French Ministers to ambassadors, and says: "The change is more desirable for business than social reasons. An ambassador can transact this country's business more speedily than can a minister."

In regard to the hauling down of the American flag in Honolulu, Mr. Reid thinks that President Cleveland wishes to conduct negotiations with the Ha-waiian Islands while they are free from restraint, together with a natural desire that the acquisition of the islands sire that the acquisition of the islands shall appear in history as the work of his administration.

In speaking of the announcementhat President Cleveland would no appoint men to the same offices they formerly held under him, Mr. Reid uld not believe that Mr. Cleve land had made any such ridiculous rule. He surely would not lay it down as a general rule that he will uniformly de-prive the country of the services of those members of his party best trained to serve it. A private citizen who should conduct his business on that theory would be thought to need a

The two great questions are tariff and silver, and, so iar as we know, nothing has been done with either, and there is no intention to touch either until about one-fourth of the President's term has run out. Before the election we were told that the McKinley tariff was the culminating atrocity of class legislation, and a most gigantic robbery of the laboring man and the poor, and in the interest of the rich. Well, the fer to let the robbery go steadily on. Unless an extra session is called it must go through half of Cleveland's term anyway, since the making of a new taranyway, since the making of a new tariff on new principles is a complicated business and takes time.
Meanwhile, the business of the country is being kept uncertain and unsettled by the impending changes.
The financial situation is kept equally uncertain by the silver question, and will be until those who have been given the power get courage enough to use it. Among all the wonderful things we will show the visiting foreigners at the Columbian Exposition this year, we shall show them nothing quite so astonishing as this. A plurality of the American people declare they are being robbed, and elect a President. Their President takes the power, and waits nearly a year before lifting a finger to stop the robbery. That is the way the administration is putting itself on exhibition in this Columbian year." Mr. Reid leaves on Thursday for Portland, Or., and after a short trip through the Puget Sound country will return to New York.

Edward and John Sullivan, the two Connecticut brothers, accused of trying to burglarize the art store occupied by Mr. Bentz, proved an alibi in their examination before Justice Crane, and were discharged from custody. Mr. Clark, who owns the lodging-house where they were stopping, testified that he was up unfil 2 o'clock on the night of the attempted burglary, and that the two men, whom he saw go to their room, could not possibly have left it without his knowledge. Ben Snell, an old resident of Santa Barbara, and a man upon, whose word implicit reliance may be placed, occupying the room adjoining the one occupied by the Sullivan brothers, testified that he saw the two men pass to their room, and heard them fling their boots upon the floor and converse together for some time afterward. A search of the men's trunk and other effects revealed nothing to their discredit. Their own statement is that they were weavers by trade, and left their Connecticut home, hoping to find work in California, the change of residence being made on account of one of the young men's health. They stopped first in Los Angeles, then in Stockton, where they worked for half a day in the woolen mills, but found the work too hard, took the boat for San Francisco, and left that day, by boat, for Redondo, stopping off in Santa Barbara, to see if they could find work. One of them was engaged by Mr. Carter, of the I. X. La tables, and the other decided to stay, hoping also to obtain work in the stables.

They tell a perfectly honest, guileless story, and made such a showing that the court could do no less than discharge them in the face of Mr. Bentz's positive identification.

FAYETTEVILLE (Ark.,) April 19.-[By the Associated Press.] At noon today a terrific cyclone passed through the valley just south of this place, leaving a barren waste behind it. Many homes were utterly demolished. Many fami lies are in the storm tonight without shelter. Out of one family named Wright, consisting of eight persons, no one escaped serious injury. A number of others are reported injured, but how many and to what extent cannot yet be determined. The citizens are doing everything possible for the dis-

Boston Housekeeper Makes Effective

[Boston Herald.] A clever woman, residing in one of the A clever woman, residing in one of the suburbs of Boston, has hit upon an ingenious way of ridding herself of the annoyance of tramps. For a long time she had been overrun by these searchers after an evelenth-hour job with twelve hours' pay. At first, from inherent kindness, she was wont to ser ve them with hot coffee and a fairly good meal, but the tramps increased so in numbers that this mode soon became not only expensive, but burdensome as a only expensive, but burdensome as a matter of labor alone. Added to this was also the loss of small articles, which some of these tramps, ungrateful for past or present favors, would purloin without ever so much as "by your leave,"

What to do to get rid of this gentry was a puzzle. The old saying that 'man has a will, but women has a way," found exemplification, however, in the present instance.

What did she do? We'l, the idea bewhat his she do? We it the idea be-came lodged in her brain that, in order to drive and keep these tramps away, the premises must be made obnoxious to them. So she quietly put some croton oil in the coffee that she dispensed to these gentlemen of leisure every morning. She soon had the pleasure of seeing, day after day, fewer and fewer of her former tramp

Whether, as this shrewd matron remarked to a neighbor, to shom she confided her riddance remedy, the tramps ever really discovered what 'worried" the coffee or not, she has never been able to tell, but they do not come to her for drink or sustenance any more.

A Hard Man to Dodge [Exchange.] A young clergyman once preached a strong temperance sermon. When he had finished a deacon said to him: "I am afraid you have made a mistake Mr. Jones, who pays the highest pew rent, is a distiller; he will be angry." The minister said: "Oh. I am sorry; will go and explain it to Mr. Jones, and remove any unfavorable impression, and tell him I did not mean him." Accordingly, he waited upon Mr. Jones, who, in addition to the profession of distilling, also carried on a good many other branches of trade and a good many amusements, and was not distin guished above other men as an ascetic The pastor expressed his regret to Mr Jones for anything in the sermon which Jones said: "Oh, bless you, don't mind that at all. It must be a mighty poor sermon that don't hit me somewhere."

A Wrong from B-itain to India.

[London Truth.]

On the new coinage, after the name of the Queen, are the additions "Ind.Imp." When Mr. Disraell conferred upon Her Majesty the title of Empress of India, he gave a pledge that in no case would the title be used within the limits of the United Kingdom. The inscription, therefore, on the new coinage is a direct and deliberate violation of a pledge. The violation is all the more flagrant, as India has a coinage of her own, and as India has a coinage of her own, and has no more to do with our coinage than China. A strong protest should be made against this new departure, which obviously is intended to pave the way to the habitual official use of the im-perial title within these realms.

RAILROAD AFFAIRS.

Variable Freight Rates Affect the Building Contractors.

New Officers Elected for the Southern California Road.

Favorable Progress of the New Road in Arizona.

leorge Gould Says the Missouri Pacific is Sold-More Seashore Trains-General and Local Notes.

Southern California contractors whe are figuring on extensive public and private works have been warned by the railroad companies that they cannot get supplies from points east of Chicago at the rates quoted by the latest tariff, No. T1. The transcontinental rates are now unstable, and, especially on and after the 25th inst., shippers will find it necessary to make a request for a special tariff for each shipment. It is said that certain bids have been made on contracts in Los Angeles, based on the freight rate quoted by the tariff which went into effect on the 11th, but which has already ceased to be effective to and from points east of Chicago.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA ELECTION. A special meeting of stockholders of the Southern California Railroad Com-pany was held at the general offices here yesterday. It was merely formal, and resulted in electing J. W. Reinhart president; D. B. Robinson, first vicepresident; W. K. Gillette, general auditor, and W. A. Burroughs, assistant general auditor. Other of the old officers were reflected.

RAPID GROWTH OF THE RAILROADS. In a review of the last census, of the progress of the decade just ended, R. H. Edmonds says, in the Engineering Magazine: "Railroad construction progressed rapidly during the decade. It is difficult to realize that whereas we now have 176,000 miles in operation we had only 93,200 miles in 1880. At the end of 1890 we had 166,700 miles—a gain of 73,500 during the decade, or about 80 per cent. Thirty leading roads, which operated $1,500 miles of track in 1880, and hauled miles of track in 1880, and hauled 96,000,000 tons of freight, in 1890 operated 76,400 miles, and hauled 262,900,000 tons. The number of passengers carried by these roads increased from 58,400,000 to 183,000,000. The number of locomotives on all the roads in the United States increased from 17,000 in 183,000. creased from 17,900 in 1880 to 32, 200 in 1890, and the number of passenger, freight and baggage cars from 556,000 to 1,092,000. The capital invested in railroads, as represented by bonds and capital stock, was a little less than $5,000,000,000 in 1880, and a little less than $10,000,000,000

MISSOURI PACIFIC AFFAIRS. NEW YORK, April 19.- By the Associated Press. A dispatch from St. onis this morning attributed to John Llessing, of the banking firm of Gavlord, Blessing & Co., a sensational story to the effect that the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company is approaching a receivership or complete reorganization. and that the company has over $7.000,-000 of a floating debt which is not shown in its reports or statements. When shown the dispatch George Gould said: "There is not a word of truth in the statement. There is to be no receiver, and the company's floating debt is only $4,000,000, all of which is carried by Russell Sage and myself." Russell Sage said: "There is absolutely no foundation for the statement. There is no occasion for a receiver for the is no occasion for a receiver for the company, and there will be none. The company's report tells the truth about the floating debt. The stock is being attacked by bears, who are short of it, and want to cover."

The Chronicle says the Traffic Association is at present resting on its oars regarding its proposition to build a road from Bakersfield to Stockton. The committee of seven has not yet been appointed, and nothing definite can be done until it is. Merchants and shippers of the San Joaquin are deeply interested in the project and in a gen-eral way they give assurances of excellent support. Trains will begin running on Saturday through the long tunnel that begins at Wright's Station on the narrow gauge. A heavy slide obstructed the tunnel on December 28 last, and since then the line has been blocked.

San Francisco railroad men laugh at the story of a great combination of railroad interests, and the threatened swarm of soliciting agents to work this Coast to shut out the Southern Pacific and the Santa Fé.

The Southern Pacific has put another train on the Santa Monica line, leaving Los Angeles t 9:20 a.m., and arriving here at 6 p.m. It is announced that on Sundays, this summer, trains will run hourly between Santa Monica and the Senator Carpenter's :111, [San Francisco Evening Post, April 18.] Senator Carpenter of Los Angeles the people of California desire a work with you. Interested as they are in all laws passed by the last Legislature, of which you had the distinguished honor to be a member, they have a special interest in Senate Bill No. 698, introduced by you, passed by the Senate, re-jected by the House and signed by you as president pro tem of the Senate, and given the Gubernatorial signature This bill, under an infamous construc-tion of the statutes that gives legality to a measure signed by the Governor, whether passed by the use of money or smuggled to his office by fraud and deceit, has become a law, and Senator

Carpenter, the people ask that you ex-plain your connection with it. * The Evening Post took the trouble to expose the record of this vicious Senate Bill No. 698; we showed that you in-troduced it in the Senate on February 15; that it passed that body on March 10; that on the following day it went to the House and was placed on file; that three days later leave to suspend the rules was asked, that it might have the regular reading, and that it failed to pass, because it was recognized as an infamous act that was likely to result in serious harm. After its defeat you indorsed the bill as having passed.

Did you believe that the bill had been successful in both houses when you signed it? If you did you had suddenly lost the use of that keen intellect for which you are justly celebrated, and if you did not you compromised yourself more seriously than we would care to say. Assemblyman Bulla says you were informed of the failure of the bill to pass the House. He is absolutely cer-tain that you knew it before you at tached your signature to it, because he told you of its fate, and if this were likely to prove a case of veracity be-tween man and man, Assemblyman Simpson's corroboration of Mr. Bulla's story would clear the doubt. Senator Carpenter, you stated that you did not know until twelve days after its defeat that Senate Bill 693 had not passed. The people desire to know if that statement was from your memory or in your defense. The mezsure was a vicious one, calculated to do much mischief and to be the source of great evil. Its success meant the distribution of considerable money. It was properly defeated, and through your instrumentality it became a law. We believe you should show your posi-tion toward that bill to the people, who will not be content without a full ex-

CHICAGO.

Apparently Clear Sailing for the World's Fair.

vent Its Successful Opening. Labor Matters Adjusted and Amp

Funds to Meet All Expenses.

The Recent Raid on Pardridge in the Wheat Market-Frank Lawler and the Postmastership-Racing Matters-Paderewski

Special Correspondence of The Times CHICAGO, April 14.—Chicago is accus tomed to nervous strains. If she wasn't she could scarcely have survived the shocks she was last week called upon to meet. Twice it seemed that all the work of two years would go for naught, and at the last moment the World's Columbian Exposition would be involved in a hopeless tangle and that May 1 would find the fair grounds in a chaotic condition. When, last week, the union workmen n the World's Fair buildings laid down their tools, the fale of the great exposition seemed to tremble in the balance. No one admitted for a moment the serious nature of the crisis, but, at that counsels a deadlock could not have been averted and the fair would not have been, as it now will be, ready for opening on May day. Labor matters adjusted, there came another shock. The funds ran out and there was a clear deticiency of $560,000 in the estimated expenses to be met before the opening day. To meet expenses of $40,000 a day close figuring was needed, and when it was seen the treasury would be short of money to meet expenses of the last fourteen days, there was fear and trembling. But the best financiers of the West were in consultation and means were devised by which the danger was arrested and the necessary funds supplied. All appears clear sailing now, and it seems that nothing short of a cyclone can prevent the successful pening of the great Exposition on the appointed day.

When a clique is tormed on 'change such as was organized last week to tack a man, it is about time for that man to stand from under. Sometimes the clique puts its foot in a very hot box, and that this did not occur last week was because the "gang" showed rare discretion in selecting their mark terest was concentrated in three men, P. D. Armour, W. R. Linn and Ed Pardridge. The latter cided to attack. The latter it was the clique de-to attack. Pardridge's plunges have been made at times when Armour was disconcerted by them, and the calculation was made that the great packer would not form any combination with the "plunger." Armour stand any raise in the May whea Armour could the goods, and sells when he wants the goods, and sells when he wants to deliver. Pardridge never handles a bushel of grain if he can help it. Armour is a grain dealer. Pardridge a speculator. It is the Armours who maintain the respectability of Johange, while the 2-addridges drag. of 'change, while the 'ardridges drag it into disrepute. There was no sympathy between Armour ann Pardridge. Linn. of course, was with Armour, and Pardridge was left alone with wheat sold at from 66 to 78 conts. Consequent quently when the cereal was sent high into the 80s Pardridge was hurt. brought in all his call money, sold house or two, and made his mar gins good to the extent of a dollars. Then his cash ran out and he retired, taking his losses and vowing vengeance on those who had operated the clique and the friends who he accused of deserting him.

They argue that Frank would not be an ornament in the postmaster's office, and might impress the guests of the year unfavorably. Lawler could have silk stocking support for the shrievalty or a similar office, but not for the postmastership. Lawler sorely hurt at the defection of friends, but not at all daunted, and it is said that after all he is the President's German in the public schools is a question which the Board of Education has been wrestling with for the past two mouths. The board has considered the matter with more than its usual so-lemnity. The Council attempted to take it up, but dropped it as too hot a political chestnut. The teachers in the arious schools want it abolished pecial language teachers want it re-dined. The Irish clubs denounce itthe Turners insist that it continue to be taught. The board doesn't know what to do, and the average American citi zen is lauging in his sleeve. The latest phase of the matter is an eruption in the German Press Club, which has expelled about a third of its members be ause they favored the abolition of Ger man as a public school study.

The indications are for a lively social season during the summer. There have been few events of note, and the im been few events of note, and the impression prevails that society is waiting for the brilliant lights from abroad before attiring herself in festal array. Certain it is that the summer season will be brilliant beyond precedent, for the hot weather and the caterers and florists expect that there will be more than winter gayety. The summer resorts will suffer, and, contrary to usual custom, city residences will remain open throughout the heated season.

Racing matters are in an unsettled condition at present, and, while the horsemen are getting their strings in shape and regulating their winter track 'dogs' to rural districts there is little definitely settled in regard to the programme for summer sport beyond the Washington Park events. Hawthorne will keep up racing and the foreign book, and it is probable that Roby will open in the near future, if Ed Corrigan relents and gives his permission. relents and gives his permission.
Garfield Park track is an uncertain quantity, and may be abolished if the erdinance passed by the Council to cut a street through it is pushed by its ene-mies. However, that has been threat-ened before, and it is not unlikely that Garfield will be wide open after the Washington Park season, if, indeed, it has no spring meeting.

There will probably be some trotting of note before the season is over. Budd

Doblets authority for that, and Budd is said to have in training as promising as staid to have in training as promising as string as ever was gathered in the West, he left for his stable at Terre Haute last Wednesday and will soon have his trotters in shape for the middle circuit, going as far as Buffalo, and perhaps Rochester, before returning to set a pace for the Western nags. Doble's string includes Nancy Hanks (2:04) Belle Vara, Stamboul and Martha Wilkes. Either of the latter three can reduce Nancy Hanks's mile, and may do something to startle the

However much the subject of cholera may agitate the public at large, resi-dents of Chicago do not fear the disease, and from all the investigation being made it would seem that there is no grounds for anxiety. Almost the entire water supply comes from a point four miles in the lake, far beyond the reach of sewage contamination. and it is pronounced as pure and good as that of any great city in the world. Until some changes are made, which will occupy about thirty days, some sec-tions of the city will be dependent on the two-mile intake, the water from which is at times not as pure as might be, but the best authorities agree that boiling will render this innocuous. Consequently even at present the water affords no danger, and in a few weeks the slightest shadow will have vanished beyond the possibility of a reversal.

Leaving an audience magnificent alike in numbers and quality, Paderew-ski, the famous pianist, bade Chicago farewell Tuesday afternoon. During the year that has just passed, this great-est of modern masters has held metropolitan critics entranced, and has wor his way marvelously to the popular heart. The announcement that his farewell recital would take place Tuesday afternoon compelled an attend-ance of an audience that outrivaled former assemblages, and was in itself splendid ovation. Paderewski's career in Chicago has been a triumph his successes have been unqualified in other cities, in Chicago the popular and critical verdict on the master's abilities has been confirmed beyond the possibility of a reversal.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

An Evening With the Poet Whittier-Musical and Literary Programm.

Members of the Epworth League of the First Methodist Church gathered in the church parlors last night to spend an evening with the Yankee poet Whittier. On the platform surrou with bougnets of flowers, was a portrait of the poet wreathed with ivy.

The programme was in the hands of Prof. C. E. Hutton, and the first exercise was the reading of an autobiog owed by F. M. Porter with a paper on Whittier as a Reformer." He was one of the prime movers in the anti slavery movement, and a co-worker with Garrison. Miss Nina Cuthbert next read a paper on "Whittier as Preacher, and the Truths he Teaches. Her reading was interspersed with corresponding extracts from his poems read by Misses Leila Thompson and Lflian Brock.

The "Boyhood of Whittier" was presented in a paper by Miss Murphy, who described a visit to his old home and school house and scenes of his child ood, to which the poet often refers in is "Snow Bound." The song, "Signal Bells at Sea," was then sweetly sing by Miss Etta Smith, after which Miss Phillips read a paper on "Whittler as a Poet." His poems on "Whittler as a Poet." His poems were the language of his heart, and he seemed divinely appointed to his work. All his poems breathe an unfaltering faith in God. He was an intense lover of humanity, and recognized in every man his brother. A piano solo was then given by Mrs.

Cook, and the closing paper of the even-ing was read by Miss Williams on the character of the poet and tributes to the same. His was a spirit of thorough-ness in all his work. He sought and ap-pro-riated the good. His greatness nes in his goodness. The evening's, entertainment was delightful and instructive.

The Dry Shave Fi nd. [National Barber.]

The dry shave flend is a corker. Misers are generally applicants for dry shaves because they have an idea that it takes their beards longer to grow out. They figure out that, while being shaved the ordinary way will necessitate a repetition of the performance every two days, being shaved dry will enable them to go three days without being shaved. being shaved. In other words, the one method will

In other words, the one method will imply the getting of 132½ shaves per annum, while the second method will reduce this to 121½ shaves, thus effecting an annual saving of something like $1.65. I generally foil these cranks by telling them that our price for dry shaves is 50 cents. Then they succumb, and ask to be shaved three times up. It's like shaving the vertebra of a razor-backed hog to shave a bra of a rezor-backed hog to shave a man dry, and makes a rezor look like a cross-cut saw.

FULL DRESS FOR THE PLAYHOUSE

(From Our Regular New York Fashion Cor-Full dress for the theater is becoming more and more pronounced. A little while ago we got used to evening gowns in the boxes at the swell theaters, and now the same thing is creeping into the orchestra. Just now, when it is not a general custom at all the theaters, it is as well to be fairly sure that the occasion is a first night, and a fashionable one at that. But the fille "no bonnets" seems likely to bring full dress into general theater use. We feared the tendency to elaborate hair dressing when bonnets should be abolished, but it has not come yet. The hair is done care-fully, and the gold is not only effective, but trining and the gold is not only effective, but it is smooth and glossy, and the general trouseled fluff that used to be accepted has been modified by tidiness. Especial care is shown about, the little locks at the nape of the neeks which are always conspicuous in the contour of the head, and formerly frequently left a straggle of locks in cateless contradiction to the wealth of curis elsewhere. Very low gowns are not worn in this country at the theater, and let us hope they will not be. The usual cut hares only throat and the chest, and does not pose at all immodestly. The materials are frequently light and soft and not elaborate. As long as the custom of going out between the acts prevails among men. women will do well to wear gowns that will stand as well as may be the rubbing of constant rising and the crowding of caraless feet and black clothes. A pretty olden-day fashion of a rew of beads worn close, about the throat is being ravived. So it, is good to be the bappy possessor of a string of real, old-fashioned, coral or gold beads.

DALPHINE.

PACKED IN COTTON.

An Orange Grove on Its Way to the The trees destined for the World's Fair will leave Pasadena today, and tomorrow will be started on their long journey East from San Bernardino, There are eight carloads, and three more from San Diego and one from San Bernardino will be added, making a full train load. Several more carloads will follow.

Half of them are orange trees and the other half mixed dates, loquats, palms, etc., with a quantity of hedge plants. The orange trees are eight feet high, are four or five years old and are loaded with oranges in all stages of ma-turity. It has been an energious undertaking to prepare these trees for ship-ping without running the risk of shak-ing off the oranges. Each tree weighs half a ton—that is, the tree and the box of earth in which it sits. The box is three feet square and filled with solid earth surrounding the roots of the tree. Over the top of the box are two or three inches of straw to hold the mois-ture, as the straw will be kept con-stantly damp during the journey across the continent. The cars are large-sized furniture cars with ventilated ends.
The trees have to be lifted by derricks and when placed in the cars are braced from all sides to prevent their sliding about with the motion of the car. Be-side each tree a beavy stake is driven to support it. Some of the trees are so tall that their tops are packed in cotton to prevent their rubbing against the roof of the car, and some have to be tilted in order to get them in at all. The branches are wound with cords so they will not chafe against each other. In short, the whole upper part of the tree is entirely rigid, and, when all is done, each tree is finally enveloped in cheesecloth from trunk to top.

For a week past eight men have been at work packing these trees for ship-ment. Charles Forrester has superintended the job with great credit to him-self and the trees. Two people will go along to take care of the moving or-ange grove.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVORERS

Farewell Meeting at the E.M.C.A. Auditorium Last Evening.

The State convention of the Christian Endeavor societies of California convenes today in Fresno, and will remain in session until Sunday. Six hundred delegates, representing the 23,000 members in the State, will be in attendance, and the meeting promises to be one of the most important ever held in the State. A vigorous campaign is being inaugurated toward securing the International Christian Endeavor Convention for 1895, to meet in Convention for 1895, to meet in San Francisco, and if the efforts put forth are successful, the convention will be the most important, in point of delegates and membership represented, ever held west of the Bocky Mountains. The convention held last year in New York city was composed of over thirty-five thousand delegates, representing a membership of over one and one-third million members.

CANINE CONGRESS.

The Attendance Far Ahead of All Expectations.

Nearly Two Hundred Aristocratic Dogs on Exhibition.

Other Northern Cities-The Judging Commenced at Once-Names of the Prize Winners.

The fifth annual Southern California convention of the canine nobility began yesterday at No. 351 North Main street. One hundred and eighty-sever dogs, some of positive degree, more of comparative degree and a majority of superlative degree, but all of pedigree, assembled on this occasion to test their respective merits. In one respect the convention was a most orderly one, each dog carefully remaining in the po-sition assigned to him at the opening of the meeting. Chains of different degrees of strength served to aid the dogs in this direction, and spectators were not molested while making the rounds

Frequent interviews were held be-tween the human visitors and the more intelligent of the nobility thus in convention assembled, but little could be got out of the latter except monosvilables. These, however, were mostly uttered in startling repetition in vari-ous tones, and designated the degree of respect the visitor was entitled to from a canine standpoint. Often it was 'a a canine standpoint. Often it was 'a yelp that met the interrogating word or glance of the visitor, but more generally it was an ordinary, every-day bark. At times, too, there was shown a remarkable unanimity of purpose among the "barkers," every one of whom seemed more than willing, and a Distance of a how! was the result.

Dickens of a howl was the result.

The doors were opened at 10 a.m., and instantly a crowd besieged the ticket-seller. This continued all day and lite last night the management stated that the first day's attendance had been double that of any previous opening day in the history of the club. One of the noticeable features about this show is the strict order maintained and the apsolute cleanliness of the en-tire hall. Sufficient attendants have been engaged to make the presence of the most fastidious visitors a luxury not often found in shows of this kind. The Southern California Kennel Club cer-tainly deserves much credit for the efficient manner in which the affair

TECESSITY knows no law. The pattern department received another big case of patterns yesterday, and the supply is equal to the demand. The cape craze has struck the American women. Cape pattern after cape pattern was called for all day yesterday, and the selling of broadcloths and storm serges was at fever heat; tan broadcloths, black broadcloths, gray broadcloths and white broadcloths for opera capes; several shades of tans and grays as well as green and blue; it takes passementerie ribbons and silks to go with them. We have anticipated your wants and can supply you with the necessary material. Where else outside of this great dress goods department can you find the assortment and the prices? All-wool serges 50c, 65c, 75c. $1; all colors. All-wool henriettas 50c, 65c, 75c, $1. All-wool dress goods in fancy weaves, closely resembling the Scotch effects, 50c, 60c, 65c, 75c, 85c, $1. A great many are buying full suits of the rough materials and making their capes to match. The Eastern papers are chuck full of cape advertising. A few seasons ago everybody had the grip; now everybody must have a cape; queer people these women-but how could we get along without them; and yet with heavy buying of woolens and silks, the cotton wash goods must not be forgotten. A lot of new things just at hand. Wide skirts and full sleeves will make sheer cotton dress goods the more desirable. Ombre effects with a queer mingling of odd figures help out the oddity of the odd designs. How odd; laces with fine meshes and heavy edges graduating in three to five widths for flouncings. Ecru, tan, white, cream, black, pink, green and blue; all these colorings in laces; think of it. Lace buying is now beginning with the first approach, of warm weather, and the lace craze will keep pace with the cape craze as the season advances. New millinery of the medium sort; trimmed hats $2, $2.50, $3, $3.50, $4, $4.50, $5. French patterns are no more desirable at three times the price. Untrimmed hats 25c, 50c, 75c, $1; children's school hats 25c and 50c; also nicely-trimmed school hats for a dollar; baby caps and baby bonnets: sunbonnets for old and young, 25c, 50c, 65c, 75c, $1. Not only was the recent floral fête at Santa Barbara a pretty and an entertain-ing sight, but the solid improvements of ing sight, but the solid improvements of the city in the way of handsome boulevards and shaded drives may prove a bit of leaven that will lighten the whole lump. Manager Babcock, of the Hotel del Coronado, was a guest so impressed by the charms of what he saw in street acordment that he has invited the entire Board of Supervisors of this city to visit the City of Flowers in a body at his expense. They will be his guests in a trip to continue from May 15 to May 18. Mr. Babcock hopes that the sight of miles of good highways, with borders of trees, may inspire them, as they inspired him, to desire for our own city a similar attraction.

The late Cathole fair proved a brilliant success socially and financially. The net receipts ran up to considerably over $2000, which goes to swell the building fund. The fair closed Monday night with a grand ball.

Next comes the lemonage booth, decorated in similar fashion and presided over by Mrs. Barcus. On the opposite side of the room stands an immense floral design contributed by the Knights of Pythias. It is triangular in form. The outer edge consists of a row of lilies and evergreens, and in the center are the insignia of the order artistically worked out in flowers and bunting. George A. AN EASTERN CAPITALIST'S VIEWS Said a well known Eastern capitalist, who has spent the winter here and invested laigely in real state: "The rapidity with which city property is advancing in value rather gets away with anything I have ever yet run up against in this line. Today I went up to buy some frontage that was held last week at $9 a foot. It had since been sold at $11 a foot, and the purchaser asked me $14 a foot. I didn't buy—the shock was too sudden. Then I called elsewhere to buy a piece of land that was on the market a few days ago at $18 a foot front, only to find that the price had been shoved up to $22. It almost took my breath away. I find that property is advancing in like manner all along the line. I have already invested considerable surplus cash in Pasadena real estate, and if I had $100,000 at my immediate disposal it would go the same way. Wide-awake investors are afficipating the paving of our principal streets, the construction and operation of an electric road to Los Angeles, and of Prof. Lowe's mountain road, and when all these things have been accomplished, as they will be this summer, the city will grow and prosper in a marvelous manner. The price of property will go still higher, and, what's more, it will stay high. People who predict that this will be a quiet summer in Pasadena will find themselves much mistaken. It will be a very lively summer, and I regret that most of our big hotels are to close. It is a big mistaken." has spent the winter here and invested largely in real estate: "The rapidity with

WHICH ROAD WILL CAPTURE THE PLUM? It will not be long before an electric road will be in operation between Pasadena and Los Angeles. It is generally conceded that the Consolidated Electric Railway of Los the Consolidated Electric Railway of Los Angeles holds a franchise over the line of the Pasadena Street Railway Company, that makes it independent of the bidding orocess as prescribed by law, although a Agal opinion has been heard expressed here to the effect that the privileges of the franchise have really been forfeited. Granting, however, that the franchise holds good, the Consolidated company has somewhat of a cinch on its competitors so far as Pasadena is concerned. But at the other end of the line Capt, Cross claims to have the cinch, because he has a franchise for an electric road from the plaza to the east city limits of Los Angeles, while his competitors have not—at least the privileges of the Consolidated company do not extend beyond the Buena Vista-street bridge. Whichever party, therefore, captures the right-of-way over the intervening territory will hold the key to the situation. In this matter the Board of Supervisors will cut a conspicuous figure. Capt. Cross wants to run his line up the adobe road, crossing the hills below Lincoln Park, near the Garvanza bridge. The Consolidated road wants to reach that point vis Pasadena a venue. Between Lincoln Park and Pasadena the proposed routes are very similar. The South Pasadena Council has drawn up a franchise, which it proposes to sell to the highest bidder. Capt. Cross told the reporter a day of two ago that he is in the light to stay, but he does not believe that two roads will be built. Meanwhile the Consol/dated company is erecting poles on Angeles holds a franchise over the line of Upon motion the resolution passed at the last meeting granting the application of the Los Angeles Consolidated Electric Railway Company to advertise a franchise over a line of route proposed by it, was rescinded, in order that certain desirable amendments might be made, and the board then resolved itself into a committee of the whole, Mr. Longley presiding, As the trustees wanted to be fully advised of the desires of their constituents, every one was given an opportunity to be heard, and the progress was therefore slow. Upon finally completing the form of the proposed franchise, the committee unanimously reported the resolution back to the board, with the recommendation that it be adopted, and the franchise therein set out to be ordered advertised for sale. Upon the showing of City Attorney Knott, however, that this could not legally be done except at a regular session of the board, it was found necessary to continue the adoption of the resolution to advertise the franchise until Monday, the 24th, that being the time of thenexi regular meeting.

The franchise grants the right-of-way asked for by the Consolidated Company for a double track electric railroad to enter South Pasadena at the intersection of Arroyo drive with its western boundary; thence through South Pasadena, and also between any point therein and any point in Pasadena, if all ocent fare between any point therein and any point in Pasadena and any point in Pasadena and Los Angeles on the line of any road owned or controlled by the purchaser of the franchise in Pasadena; for a 10-cent fare between any point therein and any point in Cost Angeles on the line of any road now or hereafter owned or controlled by the purchaser of the franchise in Pasadena; for a 10-cent fare between any point in South Pasadena and Los Angeles, at the rate of 7 cents each way. It also requires trains to be run half-hourly between 6 a.m and 6 p.m., and then hourly until midnight. The franchise also provides for the giving of a $15,000 bond in liquidated damages by the purchaser, conditioned upon the commencement of the work within sixty days, and the completion and operation of the road within nine months from the passage of the franchise. Upon motion, the applications of Capt. Cross and Messrs. Young and Abbott were continued for consideration until next Monday, and at three minutes of midnight the motion was put to adjourn. The members of the board have been doing some pretty heavy work in the consideration of railroad franchises, this being their third meeting within eight days, each session having been protracted until after 11 o'clock at night.

New City Officers Elected by the Board of Trustees.

Members Carrying Out Their Pledges ☐ Election Expenses of the Candidates →
The "Liquidation" Ball—Notes

SAN BERNARDINO.

The new members of the City Trustees were elected with the understanding that there would be some radical changes made in the management of city affairs, and especially in the selection of officers over which the board exercised the appointing power. Indeed, it was a common remark during the campaign that the candidates since elected were expressly pledged to do these things, and as such talk became cur-rent it was expected that the new board would jump into the cleaning out busines with a will. The first regular meeting of the new board was held on Tuesday night, and the expectations of the most radical of those desiring "a change" must have been more than realized.

In the appointments the City Attorney was first disposed of. The candidates were Hanry Conner, William Gird, E. E. Rowell, C./ N. Damron. J. P. Hight and H. C. Rolfe—certainly: a varied enough assortment to choose from. But when the ballot of the board was taken all were found to be of one mind, and Judge H. C. Rolfe was unanimously chosen to be City Attorney for the next two years. Judge Rolfe is an old resident of this city, having been here a score or more vears, is about been here a score or more years, is about fifty-five years old, and is considered one of the ablest attorneys in the city. The next most important place to fill—in fact-considered by many equal in importance to the City Attorneyship—was the City Clerkship; and there were ten applicants. They were T. B. Plerson, Legare Allen, W. T. Barris, T. K. McDowell, George L. Bryant, Gus McIlvaine, J. C. Boyd, E. G. Huested, Emery B. Tyler and Harry Fording. There was no such unanimity of opinion respecting the candidates for this position as was shown in selecting the City Attorney, and it was not until the fifteenth position as was snown in selecting the City Attorney, and it was not until the fifteenth ballot that Emery B. A REAL LUXURY.

A railroad ride between Los Angeles and A railroad ride between Los Angeles and Santa Ana at this season of the year is a luxury which almost all Eastern people, at least, would be eager to enjoy if they only knew of its exceptional attractions. A representative of The Times came down over the Santa F6 road early yesterday morning, and to say that the ride was a most enjoyable one is but feebly expressing its delights. The morning was almost a perfect one from a climatic standpoint. The sun was shining brightly, and the gentle ocean breeze was indeed invigorating. As the train sped downlover the broad acres of the Laguna rangch the perfume of new mown hay was wafted through the car windows, and this, mingling with the volatile particles of a wealth of roses near by, filled the coach with a composition of sweet aromatic substanca. On the mess above Anaheim for miles the country on all sides was a continuous garden of wild and beautiful flowers, which, with the movement of the train at thirty to forty-five miles per hour, seemed like an arrangement of reflecting surfaces, exhibiting an infinite variety of beautiful colors and symmetrical forms. It was nature's unexcelled kaleidoscope. As the train with its precious load of human freight neared the town of Orange, the perfume of orange blossoms was very noticeable as grove after grove was passed. One young lady, who evidently hais an innate love for flowers, at the first faint perfume of the orange blossoms threw up the window as far as it would go. Facing it she placed her elbows on its base, and with her hands clasped on each side of her beautiful face, drank in the sweet perfume until her very soul was filled with its sweetness and her cheeks flushed with its freshness. Up went other windows and sweet was the draught of nature's aromatic substance to other souls. From Orange to Santa Ana were orchards of ripening oranges and fields of waving green. While this distance was being traveled almost every window in the car remained open, and the passengers saw more of what was on the outside than on the in Santa Ana at this season of the year is a

GARVANZA:

The Supervisors Looking Out Electric Road Routes.

GARVANZA, April 18.—The peaceful inhabitants of this humble hamlet were greatly exercised today over a visit from the honorable Board of Supervisors who rode through the principal part of the town, accompanied by representatives of the three companies applying for franchises to construct an electric motor rail road between the cities of Pasadena and conses to construct an electric motor railroad between the cities of Pasadena and Los Angeles, and a committee of citizens, appointed to meet and confer with the honorable body and present to them the "key" to the side-door and do the honors of the occasion in general.

After a most enjoyable ride among the quiet vales and a thorough investigation of the practicability of the different routes under consideration, the whole party, upon the invitation of F. J. Ganahl, repaired to his beautiful villa home for lunch, where they were royally entertained by Mrs.
Ganahl and daughter.

The party expressed themselves as agreeably surprised with the beauty of the little suburb, and in view of the fact that we have been supposed to be dead for the last three or four years, pronounced it the liveliest, most jovial and entertaining corpse with which it has ever been their lot to meet.

Bronchitis. Consumption,

This disease has become very prevalent in our land, insomuch that about one in seven die with this terrible scourge.

The following are prominent symptons in the first stage, and wherever any of them exist a thorough examination should always be made with a view to arrest the disease if shown to exist: There is usually a sense of wearmess upon a little exercise, a disposition to remain passive and idle, despondency, often from no apparent cause. The culiar sensitiveness to the effects of cold and a breathlessness upon moving quickly or ascending a hill or stairs, a slight hacking cough, with or without expectoration, excitability upon slight occasions, flying pains through the chest or back, or under the shoulder blades. These symptoms are more noticeable toward or during the night, slight fever in the afternoon, cold feet and hands, or in many cases a blue lividity of the lips and roots of the finger natis. Sometimes spitting of blood or slight streaks in the mucous is the first indication of tubercular deposit, or it may be a chilly sensation in the back, followed by more or less heat in the paims of the hands, or an afternoon flush on the cheeks. The slow and gradual inroads of this form of consumption leave the stomach and appetite undisturbed for a considerable time. Finally, however, heeting feet and hands are all a threating the season of the stomach and appetite undisturbed for a considerable time. Finally, however, heeting feet and the paims to realize that he is in the last stage of confirmed consumption.

Unless both lungs are seriously affected the patient may have a reasonable hope of an entire cure if properly treated.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

SIMPSON ADULTERY CASE

The Taking of Testimony Concluded—Argument This Morning.

The Simpson adultery case was resumed in Justice Seaman's court yesterday morning, with the girl Grace Thompson on the stand. The witness's determination to shield the man against whom the crime is charged was evidently as strong as ever. While she was being examined the defense busied itself in putting in a series of objections, but these were almost unnecessary, for the woman's close-mouthed attitude precluded the possibility of evidence being brought out which might be damaging to Simpson. She denied utterly ever having had a conversation with Deputy District Attorney Skinner, shortly after the complaint against the defendant had been filed, in which she admitted that she had lived with him (Simpson) in unlawful intimacy, and at the same time saying she was alone to blame. To the question as to whether or not she had lived with Simpson in disgrace, she made the reply of "No." She did admit, however, that they had lived at the same houses and under different names.

Mrs. S. Skinner, the girl's mother, sary, for the woman's close-mouthed at-

Mrs. S. Skinner, the girl's mother, was then summoned. It was a trying position for her to be placed on the that would be mirch to be placed on the stand and called upon to give evidence that would be mirch the character of her own daughter, but she told her story in a simple and effective manner that had its weight with the jury, as well as the crowd of listeners gathered in the lobby.

Among the first queries put, Mr. Davis asked: "Do you know the defenant Simpson?"

"I am sorry to say that I do," answered the lady, and then she was told to tell what she knew about the relations that existed between Simpson lations that existed between Simpson and her daughter. It was several months ago, she related, that the first visit was pair to the office of Simpson, who was selling a catarrh cure. Grace had been suffering from the effects of a nasal disease for a considerable length of time and the physicians seemed unable to afford her relief. Seeing the advertis ment of the man Simpson in a adverti: ment of the man Simpson in a newspaper, she gave her daughter $5 and told her to visit Simpson and buy a trial bottle of the remedy. Simpson, on the Sunday following, drove out to the Skinner house in the forenoon and asked Grace to go riding with him when asked Grace to go riding with him when he came in the afternoon. Mrs. Skinner did not like his appearance, and she told her daughter that he looked more as if he belonged to the tramp class than anything else. Grace went out with him, however, and did not return until after dark. Dismayed that an intimacy was growing up between the man and girl, Mrs. Skinner sent for Simpson and asked him if he was not married. He at that time said that he married. He at that time said that he was not. She then endeavored to persuade him to stop paying attentions to Grace. She at first talked quietly and tried to reason with him, but, finding that he stubbornly resisted argument, she became angry, and a stormy interterview followed. When Simpson finally did, admit that he had been married he said that his wife was an ignorant "greaser," or something of that sort, and that he intended to get a divorce from her very soon. Mrs. Skinner then forbade him to enter her house or speak to Grace at all. Finally her daughter to Grace at all. Finally her daughter left home. On several occasions after-ward the mother had seen her, but was unable to get her to go home. Simpson was present at some of these interviews, and once, as Grace left the room where he was, Mrs. Skinner was horrified to see her go and kiss him good-bye. "The sight made me feel heart-broken," she said, with much emotion, before quitting the witness chair.

Other witnesses were examined testified that they had known the girl and Simpson to pass under the name of Mr. and Mrs. Bizal. The prosecution managed to elicit some very intelligible replies to questions between the frequent objections that came along monotoffously throughout the whole examination from the other side. When they completed their case and rested, not a witness was called on the part of the defense, and the case went over for argument today at 9:80 o'clock.

principal items of which were given in The Times yesterday morning.

A fire broke out in the rear of Terlutter & Hanneman's saloon building at this place a little after midnight, which quickly destroyed that building, as well as the Ocean View Hotel. Cohen's dry goods store, Browning's barber shop, Martin's saloon, Levren'sphillard hall and a number of smaller buildings north of Emeraid street. The loss to the owner of the Ocean View will probably be about $20,000, with $10.000 insurance; Terlutter & Hanneman's loss is $10,000, with $2000 insurance; Cohen had $2500 insurance on his stock, which was new, and he had only moved into the building about two weeks ago. By hard work the Redondo Beach Company's pavilion and Brocewell & Rosecrans' warehouse were saved, though the latter took fire several times. Bracewell & Co.'s store across the street had a narrow escape.

A Short Chat SHOES on Shoes...

The Indian who put a single feather down on the ground and laid upon it to get an idea of what a feather bed would feel like, might have felt pretty well satisfied in his own mind, but he knew very little about the subject after all. And so it is with the person who thinks he has a good idea of our Shoe stock without ever coming within our mammoth salesrooms. This important branch of our gigantic business must simply be seen to be appreciated, and the prices that are asked must be considered relative to quality before it can be understood how very moderate and reasonable they are. A uniformly high grade stock at uniformly low prices is certainly worth the consideration of careful buyers.

The trial of the Bentley murder case was resumed for the third day before Judge Smith and a jury in Department One yesterday, in the presence of a densely packed crowd of interested spectators, and so considerable was the progress made that it is possible that the case for the prosecution will be closed today.

Almost the whole of the day's session was devoted to the examination of expert witnesses, who had examined the organs taken from the body of the deceased, but the main feature of the proceedings was the masterly manner in which Mr. Goodrich wrestled with the experts upon their own ground, dis-playing a technical knowledge of medical matters almost equal to their own.
When the case was called at 10 o'clock

Assistant District Attorney Skinner announced to the Court that he had been nounced to the Court that he had been unexpectedly called upon to leave the State on Saturday next, and asked that, as there was no likelihood of the case being concluded by that day, he be allowed to retire from the case in favor of District Attorney Dillon. He thereupon left the courtroom, after counsel for the defendant had courteously expressed their reverse at his deapty. pressed their regrets at his departure and wished him luck. THE TESTIMONY.

The proceedings commenced with the examination of Thomas J. Cunningham, one of the undertakers who embalmed and laid out the body of Mrs. Bentley on the morning of January 1. He cor-roborated the testimony of his partner, Cussen, and added that some seven or eight weeks after the funeral he gave Druggist Hance a sample of the Cham-pion embalming fluid which had been used by his partner when the body of deceased was embalmed. He also stated that upon learning from Bentley that Dr. de Szigethy was the physician who attended Mrs. Bentley before her death, he called upon the doctor on January 1 to sign the certificate of death, but that he refused to do so at first on the ground that he had not visited his patient that morning. Subsequently, however, Bentley gave witness the certificate duly signed by Dr. de Szigethy.

Upon cross-examination witness admitted that the sample of fluid which he gave to Druggist Hance was not taken from the identical bottle used by his partner when the body of decease was embalmed; but was merely drawn from the same cask, from which he believed the bottle had originally been filled. After the body had been em-balmed the bottle was filled up again and placed with two others in the cabiin which the undertakers kept their "kit," so that at the present time witness could not awear positively as to which of the three bottles had been sed upon that occasion

Dr. R. Wernigk was then called. He testified to the effect that he was a practicing physician and surgeon, and belonged to the allopathic, or "regu-lar," school. He graduated from the Westmister Medical College William Westminster Medical College, Illinois, in 1882, and had been practicing ever since that time. On Sunday, January 29 last, he and Coroner Cates went out to Rosedale Cemetery, and, in the pres-ence of Druggist Hance, the superin-tendent of the cemetery and an assistant, the body of deceased was opened. to the Coroner, who placed them in a tin pail, which was then conveyed to Hance's drug store, where it was locked up in a cupboard and sealed by Notary Public Schwamm. On the following Tuesday witness, in the pres-ence of the Coroner, the sexton and two of his men, removed the brain from the corpse at the cemetery. These were examined by witness and Dr. Ainsworth, and later on Dr. Stewart also examined them. The stomach and liver were sis, but the heart was turned over to Druggist Hance for analysis, but the heart was turned over to witness, who has it yet. On Monday, January 30, witness and Drs. Kannon and Powers examined the heart, and susequently Drs. Bridge and Pugh also examined it. It was a large heart, and weighed sixteen works. also examined it. It was a large near, and weighed sixteen ounces, without the fluid, but although there was a fatty deposit round it, there were no signs of organic trouble. The body of deceased was very fat, and must have weighed the state of the signal of the signa was very lat, and must have weighed at least two hundred pounds. The kid-neys were subsequently removed by Dr. Bridge. When witness turned the liver over to the Coroner, he noticed that it was large and fatty, but there were no signs of disease, judging from its color and appearance, which were normal.

The doctor was then called upon to describe the usual symptoms of strych-nine poisoning, and its effect upon the muscular system. It was then shown that the witness had made a study of toxicology, and that the only poison of which he knew which acted similarly to strychnine was conium, an extract of the hemlock. Before turning the witness over to the defense, Attorney Denis announced to the Court that the prosecution contemplated calling upon witness and several ether doctors to answer hypo-thetical questions, but did not wish to do so until the proofs were all in, and asked that he be allowed to recall Dr.

The request being granted, the witness was cross-examined by Mr. Goodrich for the remainder of the morning session. Under the skillful manipulation of the defendant's counsel Dr. Wernigk was reluctantly compalled to tion of the defendant's counsel Dr. Wernigk was reluctantly compelled to admit that the practice of medicine was purely one of experiment, and that no doctor could tell with any degree of certainty what particular effect any particular dose of medicine would have upon any particular patient.

The witness was then called upon to explain how a dose of poison was taken up into the system, and by what process it produced its effects, Mr. Goodrich at this stage of the proceedings displaying more technical knowledge, apparently, than the medical practitioner, whom he corrected upon sev-read an extract from a standard medical work, relating to the ptomaines, and was compelled to admit that in the light of that authority no man could say positively from the appearance of the body whether death was due to strychnia or ptomaine poisoning.

gated the witness about the different organs taken from the body of Mrs. Bentley. Starting out with the heart, the doctor was induced to admit that although this organ may not be organ-ically diseased, it might still be affected from sympathy with the kidneys, and the extra work necessitated would pro-duce enlargement. Dr. Wernigk sturd-ily maintained that the heart taken from deceased was a healthy one, and explained that as that organ became enlarged with age, it was not abnormally large for a person as old as Mrs. Bentley at the time of her death. Mr. Goodrich used every artifice to shake the witness upon this point, but in vain.

Upon redirect examination Dr. Wer night defined promaine as a class of animal alkaloids formed by the putre-faction of albuminous matter, stating that it was frequently found in cheese and canned foods. It had only been dis covered within the last ten years.

Counsel for the prosecution then en deavored to extricate the witness from the difficulties into which he had been drawn upon cross-examination; but Mr. Goodrich immediately afterward made him retrace his steps over some of the same ground with equally disastrous

At the close of the examination of the witness, a recess was declared until 2 p.m.

AFTERNOON SESSION. Upon reconvening at 2 o'clock Dr. Wernigk, who presented himself at the bar with an armful of medical works, was recalled for the purpose of showing his authority for the statement that there were cases in which no traces of strychnine poisoning could be found upon a post-mortem examination of the body. Witness cited a number of cases from such well-known authorities as Reiss, Ziemssen and Taylor. He also read from Gray's anatomy, to show that his statement as regards the enlarge-ment of the heart with increasing age was founded upon facts known to scien-

Upon cross-examination the doctor still contended that his statement to the effect that a heart weighing sixteen ounces could be a healthy one was sup-ported by anthorities, but Mr. Goodrich differed with him as to the construction to be placed upon the wording of the works cited, and finally compelled him to admit that in the cases he referred to there was no proof of poison having been administered, although it was so alleged, and that in the case cited by Taylor it was shown conclusively that the stomach had been tampered with

Upon cross-examination the witness was forced to admit that a careful chemist would have washed the tin pail and tested the water before placing the organs to be analyzed in it, and that as he did not do so, he could not positively swear that no strychnia had been in either the bucket, some other substance or the water with which the bucket was washed. He also admitted that in his analysis of the organs he made no examination except for strychnia, and that he tested for that poison because Drs. Cates and Wernigk and Detective Lawson had suggested its presence to him. He also admitted that he made no examination of the blood, urine, heart, kidneys or lungs. He stated that he treated both the stomach and its con-tents together, but admitted that it was impossible for him to tell whether or not any of the poison had been ab-sorbed, unless the stomach and fluid were treated separately. He also ad-mitted that this was his first analysis

The witness was called upon by Mr. Denis to make the test for strychnine in the presence of the jury, and, opening a small handbag upon the reporters' table, proceeded to extract his apparatus therefrom. Mr. Goodrich, however, tus therefrom. Mr. Goodrich, however, claimed that all the doctor could prove was 'that strychnine was strychnia, and, as the defense was willing to admit that fact, there was no necessity for the test. It being also admitted that the substance in the bottle found in Bentley's trunk was strychnine, the witness was not required to make any experi-ments—much to the apparent disap-pointment of the crowd in the court-

Almost a Whole Day Devoted to Consideration of the Bids.

Committee Recommends That the Proposals of Mansfield & Grant and Hughes & Mayer Be Accepted-The Figures.

The Sewer Committee of the City Council met yesterday morning for the considering the proposals submitted for work on the outfall sewer. In order to make it more convenient for all, the meeting was held in the Council chamber. The names of the bidders were respectively called and each was given an opportunity to explain in regard to the manner in which he pro posed to do the work, according to drawings or models which had been by him submitted. The name of the firm of Mansfield & Grant was last called. This firm had submitted two bids each on two of the sections, one of which in each case was considerably lower than that presented by any of the other contractors. While Mr. Grant was explaining the drawings presented, some of the other competitors for the jobs called the attention of the committee to certain patents involved in the propositions and urged that that body should take such action in the matter that the construction of the sewer could not be tied up for an indefinite length of time by litigation over those

Chairman Nickell stated that the Council was not there to be bulldozed by the contractors, and that it was in-tended that that body should take such a course as to obviate any difficulty of that kind. After hearing what the various contractors had to say on the question the committee adjourned to the committee rooms, and, after some further delibera-tion, took a recess until 10 o'clock. The committee met in private session in the afternoon and discussed the hids of lowest amounts as to their respective merits, and the material and manner of construction intended to be used in them. After a pretty thorough consideration of the matter the committee decided on the following report:

A Farmer's A dvice to Mr. Hayes. [Detroit Free Press.]

The story is told that the late R. B. Hayes had for a neighbor in Ohio a testy old fellow who ran a small truck He was honest and upright, and Mr. Hayes held him in high esteem, notwithstanding his lack of the social amenities and respect for persons. On one of his visits to Ohio during his presidency he passed the old man's farm and found him planting potatoes in a patch near the road. The Presi dent, being somewhat of a farmer him-self, noticed some peculiarity in his neighbor's style of planting, and, after a few minutes' chat, he called his attention to it, and the old man argued the point awhile.

"After all," concluded the President,

"I don't think you are doing it as it should be done for the best results."

The old farmer rested his arm on the fence and looked steadily at Mr. Haves.

"They ain't neither one of us," he said, "above havin' fault found with us, but ef you go on Présidentin' the United States your way, an' I go on plantin' pertaters my way, I guess we won't be no wuss off in the end."

Mr. Hayes accepted the suggestion pleasantly and passed on.

THE COURTS.

Supreme Court Opinion Received for Filing.

Final Decision in the Gordon-San Diego Case.

Non-suit in the Gleason-Hays Picture Case.

Charles Thornton Held to Answer to th Charge of Burglary-The Hyland tinued Today.

A Supreme Court opinion was received yesterday at the deputy clerk's office in the case of H. C. Gordon, respondent, vs. the City of San Diego. appellant, the action being to quiet title to the east half of pueblo lot 1215, containing about forty-five acres of land situated within the city of San Diego.

The appeal was taken from a judgment in favor of the plaintiff adjudging him to be entitled to said east half of the lot referred to, according to the map made in 1856, and adjudging that the defendant had no title thereto, also from an order denying a motion for a new trial. The opinion cites that the city of San Diego, being the owner of pueblo lot 1215, in February, 1869, conveyed in due form and by valid deed an undivided one-half thereof to one William Whaley; that the plaintiff, H. C. Gordon, is the successor in interest by proper mesne conveyance of the land and interest conveyed to Whaley; that on the 28th day of February 1869, the city of San Diego executed to one J. C. Babcock a proper deed of conveyance of the entire west half of the same lot, and that the deed to Babcock was first acknowledged and recorded, and that upon this state of affairs the lower courts entered judgment quieting and confirming plaintiff's title to the entire east half of lot 1215, and perpetually restraining defendant, the city of San Diego, from asserting title thereto, and that it be decreed to have no title thereto. Further, that by the convey-ance to Whaley of the undivided half of the lot, he became tenant in com-

the entire west half of the same lot to Babcock, it had conveyed the whole thereof, and, as a consequence, ceased to have any interest in any part of the This second position is not readily apparent. No doubt two halves of a thing are equal to the whole of it, but the undivided half and the whole of half of a thing are not equal to the whole of it. When Whaley received a deed of an undivided half of the lot be was a tenant in common with the city, and when on the next day the city sold the whole of the west half of the same lot, it simply attempted to convey the whole of a parcel of the lot in which it owned an undivided half.

mon with the city therein. This is, no doubt, a correct conclusion. That when on the next day the city conveyed

If a grantor conveys lot A, which he does not own. I am at a loss to see how. in the absence of mistake or fraud, he can be deemed to have conveyed lot B, which he does not own. If the title of Whaley failed to the west half of the lot, it was by failure to have his deed acknowledged and recorded prior to the recording of the Babcock conveyance. There, is, however, another and distinct theory upon which respondent con-duces the judgment of the lower court can be upheld. . . . If the city of San Diego is bound by its acts in the premises, it must be upon the ground of estoppel. But estoppels must be mu-tual. All authorities are to the effect that a sale by a tenant in common, by specific bounds, of a portion of the land held in common, is not binding upon his co-tenant unless ratified by him. I fail to find in the record any evidence of ratification by Whaley, or those holding under him. It is true it appears that the deed to Babcock was first acknowledged and first recorded; but Babcock for all that, appears to have taken no actual notice of the prior deed of Whaley. Had Whaley conveyed the whole of the east half of the lot, an inference might be predicated, perhaps, on that act, as tending to show his acquiescence in a partition; but, so far as appears, he did not do so. It was stipulated at the trial that the plaintif in this action succeeds, by proper mesne conveyances, to any title and inmesne conveyances, to any title and in-terest in and to said pueblo lot 1215, which was conveyed to Thomas Whaley by deed dated February 27, 1869." The finding of the Court is in harmony with the stipulation. It is recommended that the order and judgment appealed from be reversed and the court below directed to enter a judgment quieting plaintiff's title to the undivided third of the east half of pu-eblo lot 1215, described in the complaint, and adjudging defendant to be equal owner and tenant in common with plaintiff therein. For reasons given in the opinion the judgment and order appealed from are reversed.

ALL OVER A PICTURE. Gleason vs. Hays is the familiar title of a suit which came up for hearing yesterday in Department Four. The plaintiff, Mrs. Gleason, several months since contracted with the defendant to have him furnish a portrait of her little daughter, but was dissatisfied with the work when time came for the order to be delivered and the price paid. An action was brought in Department Six, and the Court ordered that Mrs. Glea-son would be obliged to settle for the picture. In the meantime, it not having been brought to her, she entered suit to recover the property, the case coming up regularly for trial yesterday before Judge Van Dyke, W. T. Williams, Esq., and E. H. Bentley, Esq., appeared for the plaintiff, and A. M. Stevens, Esq., for the defendant. A jury trial was demanded by the plaintiff. After the examination of the complaining witness and C. A. Miller, the defense made a motion for a non-suit tense made a motion for a non-suit which, upon being argued at length was granted by the Court.

It was some months before a suspect could be located, but the crime was eventually fixed upon Thornton. He left town immediately when he found that he was

A Pathetic Scene in Court Yesterday Morning.

The Two Children Finally Given Up by Their Father.

Ewing Makes a Statement of His Side of the Case.

He Says He Did Not Intend Any Disre spect to the Court, Nor Did He Intend to Disobey Any of Its Orders.

The final scene in the Ewing drama was played in Judge Van Dyke's courtresterday morning, whither the plaintiff was summoned to show cause why he should not be punished for contempt of court, in that he refused to deliver the children to the custody of their mother in accordance with the Judge's order. It was exactly 9:30 o'clock when Mr. Ewing, accompanied by the little girls, entered the courtcoom, Mrs. Ewing and her attorney, W. D. Gould, having already arrived. The plaintiff entered the Judge's chamber, and a private conference was held for a few minutes, when Judge Van Dyke, ac companied by the plaintiff, appeared. The Judge then stated that Mr. Ewing had given a very reasonable answer as to why he did not deliver the children on the day previous to the constables who were sent to take them, stating that no papers showing their authority to do so had been presented by the offi-cers, and therefore he had refused to give the children up, but was ready to comply with the demands of the Court and was now ready to surrender them.

Judge Van Dyke then ordered the constables to deliver the children to their mother. A dramatic scene en-sued. The children resisted with sobs and hysterical screams, but were finally taken by force to their mother and from the courtroom. They were borne to a private room in the building by the constables, accompanied by the mother, who was followed by a number of lady friends, and a hack was tele-phoned for to convey Mrs. Ewing and the little ones to her rooms. For several minutes the children continued to scream and cry, but were soon pacified and docile when assured that they would not be harmed.

A casual observer could but be suspiclous, if so mild a term be admissible, that the methods used by Ewing to retain his children were largely in the way of bribes and threats, which, over such young children, could be used with powerful effect. They evinced not a shadow of fear of their mother, after she had taken them in her arms, and not five minutes after they had been reafored to her one of them clung to her with all the affection which a loving child could show for its mother, while the other one, with the blissful uncon-sciousness and innocence of childhood, a valuable "pointer" when sobbed out, in an aggrieved voice, 'Papa promised me a big box of candy.' Whether this had been offered as a reward for the kicking and screaming on her part, which rendered the scene so tragic, is an question, but certain it is that a friend promised the box of candy, the tears were speedily dried and presently a smile played over the pretty features of the child. The sad, face of the mother, who has waited with pathetic patience the restoration of her rights, beamed with smiles that were so near to tears as to be more pathetic than otherwise. When the carriage arrived a constable and a corps of lady friends accompanied Mrs. Ewing and the children down to where it was waiting, the corridor being crowded with spectators, and the mother rode off with the two children, who were now in good children, who were now in good spirits, laughing and waving their little hands to friends from the carriage. The insinuations that Mrs. Ewing is insane or irresponsible mentally, which the plaintiff sought to introduce as evidence against her ability to care for her children, are as false as they are wicked and unjust. There is not a brighter, Mrs. Helen Blair, who read the thirty-more evenly balanced woman mentally in Los Angeles, and she has kept a far took charge of the meeting. The refore level head through all her trouble than many women would have done. The deprivation of the sense of hearing has but rendered her other faculties more acute.

She is an accomplished artist, being far more talented in that direction than Mr. Ewing.

EWING'S STATEMENT.

What He Says About Retaining the Chil dren in His Possesseon.

Yesterday afternoon, after the proceedings in court, Ewing called at the TIMES office and left the following, written by an attorney, for publication as his statement of the case:

To the Editor of The Times: A statement was made in your paper today, concerning myself, which requires correction. The statement is this: "Ewing secured posession of the children and has, so far, refused to give them up." Instead of "securing" possession of them, the children have sion of the children and has, so far, refused to give them up." Instead of "securing" possession of them, the children have been in my possession constantly, without coercion, from their earliest Infancy, and I have done for them all that a father could do, and much that a mother should have done. For these acts they have clung to me as their only natural protector, and have refused to leave me until forced to do so by the cruel hand of the law. The decree of court reads that I should "surrender these children to the defendant." Neither the defendant nor any authorized agent of hersever came to me for the children; if she had done so she might have taken them without my interference, but results have shown that they would not have gone with her without the exercise of force. Two omcers came to my studio and wanted the children. I demanded their authority to take them, as I had a right to do. They did not claim to be acting under any process of court, and exhibited nothing but the decree, which did not authorize any person but the defendant to take or receive the children. This point was practically conceded by the officers, and subsequently by defendant's attorney, Gould, for, this morning, after the children had been dragged away from me with force and violeuce, in the courtroom, and given into the hands of the women who have inspired these proceedings, Gould applied to the court for an order to protect the officers in what they had done. I certainly would have resisted any attempt to take my children by any person acting without lawful authority, but I would just as promptly have yielded obedience to any authorized orders, process of decrees of court. Whether the unprecedented proceedings of this morning were justified remains to be determined.

Proceedings of the Los Angeles County Convention.

An Entertaining Address by Mrs. Mary Clement Leavett, the Mother of the Organization-Election of Officers.

Tuesday evening's session of the Los Angeles County W.C.T.U. Convention at Pomona was called to order by Mrs. Emma Cash. Mrs. L. Bacon of Los Angeles read Isiah v, 11-15, and Rev. Mr Cory, of the Pomona M. E. Church, offerred prayer. Then followed a duet, sung by the little son and little daughter of Rev. E. R. Bennett, of the Po mona M. E. Church. The children did well, and their singing was very good. Mrs. Mary Clement Leavett, who is known as the mother of the W.C.T.U., then came forward. She is a very pleasant speaker, and seems perfectly at home on the rostrum. She has been all over the world in the W.C.T.U. work, and within the last ten years has formed over 200 unions. Association with almost every nation in the world, and being constantly before the public, makes her an interesting speaker. She said, in part: "Europe is the hardest country in which to do W.C.T.U. work, because the ministers use wine on their tables and give it to their children. and give it to their children to drink Total abstainers do not exist on the continent. They do not know that al-coholic liquors are prohibited in the Bible. The work, however, is being carried forward by the English-speak-ing people, who understand the Bible better than any other. I saw more drunkenness in Paris than in Boston, and there are only two or three cities in America that have as much. In 1889 25,000 people died in Germany alone from pure alcoholism. At the last meeting of the Ornithological Society of Berlin Dr. Reichenow communicated the particulars of the finding of remarkable remains of gigantic birds in Argentina double the height of the ostrich, which represent height of the ostrich, which represent our living cassowaries and ostriches. In modern times many kinds of birds are becoming exceedingly rare, especially the dinorious races of New Zealand, which are beginning to die out. The lecturer presented a specimen of one of these birds, a very rare and costiy apteryx hisselti, which inhabits the northern island of New Zealand, and, while resembling the ostrich, is very much larger. The government of New Zealand has determined to cut off some of the smaller islands from all civilization, in order, after destroying all the wildcats, pigs and other animals introduced there, to preserve as far as possible, the native birds.

THE WORK OF WOMEN

TEDIOUS LABOR AT HOME AFTER A

If a Woman Works In a Pactory, She Often Has to Spend the Greater Part of the Night In Sewing or Cooking For Herself

Special Correspon ence of The Times.

Tycsox, April 18.—Arizona is out with a new geological resource. Great tracts of its territory are covered with caliche, a half rock of lime-like appearance. Beds of the stuff are of many yards in thickness and cover thousands and thousands of acres. The substance has been regarded as worthless and a shown by this story from the soap works. side cards for many a working woman is shown by this story from the soap works. The woman, who was either so exhausted or so dizzy that she could not safely see her way down stairs, had risen at 2 o'clock that morning and had done the family wash be-fore 7 o'clock. Her old mother, whom she supported, was an invalid, so presumably this woman had other small things to do about the house every day hefore coing to about the house every day before going to work. Now, a business woman may put work. Now, a business woman may in just as good work as a man does, but must have considerable more elasticity than most men have to do the day's work and not leave the other "duties" undone. And women are able, under stress of im-mediate need, to draw upon a sort of reserve energy they have, their enthusias .. . or serve energy they have, their enthusias... or nervous energy making them able for a short time to do enormous tasks, but of course the pace cannof go on continually. The poor woman at the soap works was witness to that. Since many women must work for their living and must support families dependent on them alone, they should not draw too much on their grand facility as women for doing several things at once or for working over time and incessantly. A traveler from Altruria, Mr. at once or for working over time and inces-santly. A traveler from Altruria, Mr. Howells' newly discovered romance coun-try, would say, "it would have been better for that poor creature on Monday, staggering under the double load of millwork and sework if she had done her family wash previous morning and so taken her before dawn Monday." The duty of that daughter to her old mother and to herself compelled certainly the easing of her hard labors by dividing them as much as possible. Her duty to herself was probably the one thing she never thought of.

In this connection it is interesting to quote a speaker at the meeting of the national American convention of women held in Washington. She said, "A government clerk, a gentleman in the same division and doing no different cless of work than the ladies, once hazarded the remark that a woman in office ough, to be ashamed if she did not make every article of her own wearing apparel except her boots." The reason for this exception has been a problem. It is easier to make a pair of boots than a dress, and we have the respectable precedent of 'Hannah binding shoes.' He was asked if he made his own trouger and said 'of course not,' and at once grew so fractious as to discourage argument."

The world seems still to expect it of women in any out of the house employment to keep up as much as possible all the incidental work that the stay at home women have. Thanks to the chengening of ready made clothing—not always cheapened at the expense of the professional sewing machines—thanks to the chengened supply of clothes, the business woman does not have to sit up until I o'clock in the morning making the dress she is to wear at her work. It is enough, and often more than enough, tax upon her if she mends it and trims her own In this connection it is interesting

If she spends much time over the sewing If she spends much time over the sawing machine or the ironing table, she does not come into the labor market fresh enough either to do justice to her employer or to compete with men in the same business for even her lower wages. Yet there are very few employers who will venture to say that a woman does less of the same kind of work or does it less well than the man, to whom he must pay more. He gives her the work generally because he pays her less for doing it as well. As the difference is not to him, it is to herself. It is taken out of her own estate, the double work which she does and estate, the double work which she does an which frequently ends in an unexpected

It is an excellent thing in woman, therefore, when she can make her family life, as the wage earner, to include one capable stay at home, one other woman, who can share the profits and help to make them larger by attending to just hose matters which it is scarcely right the wage earner should do. In The Forum a lively article by a practical woman points out that the

which it is scarcely right the wage earner should do. In The Forum a lively article by a practical woman points ont that the housekeeping of the present can solve many problems by a sort of, co-operation among little parties of women themselves, two or three friends, all of whom work, and who divide the kinds of housework each should do. Clubbing teacher on either large or small scale seems to be the answer to many problems.

All of these plans must recognize, however, that house duties in such good little home circles are just as much to be paid for as typewriting and bookkeeping are and not merely by board and lodging. The wife of the workingman, who usually keeps his wages, is recognized in the old arrangement. They are hers to spend or to save for the general good, and what she saves should be her profit or be divided justly. The unmarried woman, as the case of the soap factory hand shows, is the head of the family very often. It is among the duties of thoughtful persons in what is left of this inineteenth century to show her how she may do daughters, duty housekeeping. nineteenth century to show her how she may do daughter's duty, housekeeper's duty and millhand's duty without neces-sarily killing herself in the double and tre-ble task.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Value of the Mother's Milk.

Be sure not to let your nurse or some well meaning friend persuade you that you have not milk enough or are not strong enough to nurse the baby and had better "bring him up on the bottle." If you have not all the milk that he requires, your diet may be changed or added to, so that more will be secreted. If you are not strong, you should be so built up by food and tonics as to be able to give your baby the necessary care. In any case it is far better to supplement your milk by some suitable infant food, given at every other feeding, or given during the day, while the breast milk is reserved for the evening and night, that to deprive him of his natural food entirely.

How do these things work practically! I know a little girl brought up in this way who had not any sickness, not even an attack of colic, during her first two years. She allowed her mother to aleep well every night, waking only once to nurse her between 10 p. m. and 6 a.m. Harparents were not unusually vigorous people. Her mother was certainly $5\' years old at the time of her birth, and she began life as a tiny, puny girl, not at all promising to become the strong, healthy child into which she devel oped. Her care was simply wisely and regularly managed.—Mother's Nursery Guide. Value of the Mother's Milk.

It is equally a mistake to provide a friendly of a hired entertainer. Magic lantern alides are a pleasant relief after games, but children feel more quickly tired sitting still than when in motion, and even for a short time the magic lantern needs a lively spokesman. The prestidigitator and Punch and Judy are most popularly in demand, but neither of these is as satisfying as that small importance which every child feels in helping to make fun. A mother says that two young fellows who don't mind making themselves ridiculous are better than any ventriloquist or master of legerdemain.—New York Sun.

ough the importance of the use of sunlight as a sanitary measure in the house cannot be overestimated, our message is not of the sun. And though, so long as lovers love and poets sing, the sweet silvery light of the moon, as a subject, cannot be dispensed with, our message is not in praise of Luna. It is the idea of the attractiveness and moral influence of artificial light, as a factor among the safeguards of home, that is impressing itself upon the mind. Con-sidered from a purely economic standpoint, little light might answer human purposes, but in no walk in life does man purposes, but in no walk in life does man purposes. but in no walk in life does man stop at ab-solute necessity where he has the ability or power to reach out to indulgence. Robin-son Crusoe was thankful no doubt for his son crusoe was thankful no doubt for his clay dish of goat'e fat and his piece of hemp for a wick, but he would have preferred and been more thankful for an electric plant if such a thing had then been at hand. It is not always the limit of bare expedi-ency that satisfies or that is really best in results. Indulgences beyond necessity are continually full of laudable pleasure and the source of much true havelesses. There the source of much true happiness. There is a universal consent given to the attractiveness of artificial light. In the use of it every artifice is used to augment its glitter and shimmer and glare until the power of its influence is felt by every creature blessed with vision. This power, like many other forces, can be used for either good or evil.

Women In Politics.

It has often occurred to me that the wom It has often occurred to me that the wolf-an who has method and prudence enough to successfully and visely manage her house-hold might exert for good or for evil an al-most incalculable influence in politics. Woman was not meant to be either the unthinking drudge or merely a pretty orna-ment to occupy man's leisure. She exists for herself as well as others, and the serious and responsible duties she is called upon to perform require the cultivated mind as well s the sympathizing heart.

It is not necessary for a woman to vote. she can cry out with all her strength for pure patriotism and insist upon the nomina-tion and election of good men. In this way she can do much to hurry the time when men of brains and heart shall rule the country instead of men of money. It is public sentiment that controls politics, and the home is one of the most efficient makers of sentiment that this country possesses. It is a woman's duty to develop the spirit of patriotism, which is directly essential to the success of the nation and indirectly to the prosperity of the people. If women were properly schooled in political science, they would in time exert a powerful influence upon the morals, patriotism and politics of the country.—Home Magazine.

Danger In Flirtation

Says a popular writer: "A flirtation to-day is a ripple merely, but tomorrow it will be a breaker, and after that comes hopeless loss of character. Girls, I have seen you gather up your roses from their vases night and fold them away in damp par to protect their leveliness for another day.

I have seen you pluck the jewels like sun sparkles from your fingers and your ears and lay them in velvet caskets which you locked for safe keeping. "You do all this for flowers which a thousand suns shall duplicate in beauty and for jewels for which a handful of dollars can reimburse your loss, but you are infinitely careless with the delicate rose of maidenliness, which once faded no summer shining can ever woo back to freshness, and with the unsullied jewel of personal reputation which all the wealth of kings can never buy again, once lost. See to it that you preserve that modesty and womanliness without which the prettiest girl in the world is no which the prettiest girl in the world is no better than a bit of scentless lawn in a milliner's window, as compared to the white rose in the garden, around which the honey bees gather. See to it that you lock up the unsullied splendor of the jewel of your reputation as carefully as you do your diamonds and carry the key within your heart of hearts."

An English State Scoret. I hope that the revelation I am about t make may be considered as strictly con dential. It must not be told across the At dential. It must not be told across the At-lantic. It is one of those secrets which one learns with shame and repeats in a whi-per. It refers, in fact, to the venerable house of lords. It has to do with a thing which greatly adds to what the peerage calls the enjoyment of a title. It is a secret of the restinging or rebing room. It is nothing vestiarium, or robing room. It is nothing less than the long and carefully concealed truth about the coronet. You know that it is a crimson velvet cap, very soft and pretty and comfortable, round which is the gold coronet set with pearls. Now, a coronet is just a broad circular band, as everybody

The iron crown of Lombardy is such band of gold set with great rubies rough. 7 cut, and without any pulliative of velvet. With the bare crown stuck firmly on his with the bare crown states firmly of miswig adjusted on his head there is the other man—a lord chief justice. Very well, then.
The peer's coronet is not of gold at all. I am assured, by one who knows, that it is of copper gilt, and that the pearls in it are not pearls, but silver things as big as nigrous? eggs. One more illusion is gone. pigeons' eggs. One more illusion is gone. We shall learn next that the velvet is cot-ton velvet or sateen or soft merino, or even red flannel. Only copper gilt! Is it possible!—Walter Besant in London Queen.

To Help Out Weak Driver A veteran horseman, whose observations of driving about the city cover nearly half a century, has undertaken to relieve the distress which the sight of a bit pulling horse causes him by an invention that he means to share with his suffering drivers free of royalty charges. So far as he knows, all devices intended to prevent a willful horse from taking the bits in its teeth are means of torture, cutting the teeth are means of torture, cutting the horse's mouth or otherwise causing pain. This is needless, he thinks, as well as cruel, This is needless, he thinks, as well as cruel, and no one who enjoys driving and loves horses can approve of any such punishment. His device is quite as effective, he thinks, and not at all painful. By its use, when a horse begins its capers, the device is so connected with the bit that it pulls at the horse's tall, which receives the strain now imposed on the driver. As the pulling becomes harder the horse simply tugs at the roots of its own tail. The inventor has tried the apparatus and says he has never driven a horse that was not at once broken of the pulling habit by it.—New York Times.

There was a little dancing affair at a good man's house the other evening on Cass avenue, given by the daughters, the old folks being absent. As a refreshment the girls had quietly introduced a little claret punch, and a reporter, who was a guest, was devoting some of his apare time to it.

"Goodness me," exclaire."

"Goodness me," exclaimed one of the roung ladies. "Idon't know whatever page would say if he form out we had charet punch. You mustry not it get in the paper," she begged of him.

The reporter bowed, with courtly grace, over his glass.

"My dear Miss Ethel," he said, "don't be alarmed. I shall not waste it by putting it in the paper," and he filled his glass again.

Telling Sex by Movements.

Observant and farsighted persons dis-inguish at great distances a man from tinguish at great distances a man from a woman, not by dress, face or figure, but by movements. The motions of the most graceful of men are ungainly when compared with the sinuous lines that most women instinctively assume. It often happens that a single motion of a distant figure, and especially a motion of the arms above the head, will instantly determine for a trained observer the sex of the person. If any one doubts this, let him note the awkward, windmill like performance of a man arranging his hair, and the graceful curves, and deft touches with which a woman accompanies the same thing.—New

A Cat Exterminator

An ingenious Brooklynite has come out with an invention which bids fair to rele gate the bootjack to the attic with the distaff and spinning wheel. He has run a wire along his back fence. Why Some Girls Have No Sweethearts

Why don't some girls get sweethearts Why, indeed? There is the girl who never tries to be agreeable unless she may hav all her own way. This type of girl is never successful in her love affairs. Be a man ever so smitten with a girl he is but huma. and will not give way in every little thing.
As the old lady said, "Acep a man in ho water a little while and he boils soft, but let him remain in hot water and eventuall, he hardens." Yes, and then he asks him self a scrious question. He considers that a girl who is so contrary during courtship will be no better as a wife, and so, for himself, own sake and for hers, he rides away. The the girl with the haughty manner and col stare. No man dares to make love, because there is nothing whatever to love in he, and as Bridget has it, "One cannot mak-nothin out of nothin."

Imagine a man wooing an ice maiden or an Egyptian sphinx! Another girl with out a lover is the exceedingly shy maiden. She likes to admire men at a distance, but the moment they draw near she drives then back with her embarrassment. They retir simply out of pity, seeing her distress and awkward basinfulness.

Finally the girl who does not want a lover—the home girl, who finds a joy in do mestic employment and is blissfully happy in following her round of duties. There are many such—nechange the dream of an ideal many such—perhaps the dream of an ideal lover, but he is so far away or so out of reach that she is content to dream of him as an unattainable hero.—Exchange.

In English Workhouses.

It was the great reproach against the English workhouse in old times that husband and wife, even in advanced age, were separated, and the touching wish embodied in "John Anderson, My Jo," could not be carried out. But as a matter of fact it now carried out. But as a matter of fact it now appears that the wish itself is wanting. "Twe looked after he for 40 year," says an ancient dame, "and I've had enough of it," and "I came in here on purpose to get out of the resch of the old gal's tongue," retorts the husband. WOMAN AND HOME.

CHILDREN SHOULD BE TAUGHT TO BE SELF DEPENDENT.

Making Dinner a Formal Function-Con tentment of Motherhood-Woman on a Rainy Day-A Hint to Correspondents. There Many Mothers Fail.

"Mamma, what can I do now? Tell me something to do, mamma." What unwise mother has not heard this oft repeated, toilsome request, and with a sigh has not wished her child would form her own plans and amuse herself.

I have known two sisters so near of an I have known two sisters—so near of an age that they ought to have been able to play happily together all day long—even after they were large children, go, first one and then the other, to their mother with this exasperating question. And I have felt that if I were allowed to answer them I could settle it in their minds for once and

And yet we cannot lay sil the blame on the children. I have called the mothers unwise. And it is so, and time proves it. The girls who are brought up to be al-ways amused, always attended to first, are the ones who grow up taking all that is given them as a matter of course. Always given them as a matter of course. Always absorbing, never giving out.

They make the visitors who sit with folded hands and idly watch you at your work. They do not attempt or offer to make their own beds. They gaze listessly out of the window or exhaust, by fragmentary reading, the books on the center table.

It is the guest who depends on us for e moment's pleasure whom we are loath to invite the second time. How can we inculcate this virtue of resource in our children?

speaking now only of the healthy children —at the early age when he begins to blink at the light from the window and stare at the colors in the room should not be left in a comfortable position in his crib or cradle and be allowed to blink and stare for an hour at a stretch several times a day. Is it not reasonable to suppose it is pleasanter to him than to be continually caught up, tangled in his long clothes, jumped, shaken, kissed—and a whole article might be writ-ten under this head—trotted and talked to, his poor weak head supported unnaturally, until every little sensitive nerve is expectant of the next new sensation it is to be called upon to endure?

The answer is self evident, and it saves his mother more than she can express if he is taught that the cradle in his happy hours is the place for him.

Then as a child grows older and is able to sit up and notice things there is no reason why he should not be pillowed up on the floor or bed for an hour or more at a time and taught to play with his toys. He can shake his rattle. There is no need of your lying prostrate, before him and doing that for him or of pressing his squeaking pig or pulling at his worsted reins. Show him how, and he would much rather do it.

If, when a little older, he runs to you to string beads or buttons, teach him how; then let him do it while you work. Let him paste his own pictures, build his own blocks, look over his books himself.

It will only be under some se to develop: It will only be under some se-were stress of circumstance or heavy disci-pline, and the lesson will be hard. Making Dinner a Formal Function.

At a recent tea there was an interesting discussion between three or four whether in an unpretentious home dinner should be made a formal ceremony for which the men folks should be induced to array themselves in evening attire.
"I believe in it," said a doctor's wife, the mother of grown sons and daughters. "I feel very proud of my mankind seated at dinner in their white ties and black suits. I can remember how Robert set the example for the rest of us after his return from distinct the rest of us after his return from isiting an English family. You know over there the etiquette of dinner always requires an evening suit, and I firmly believe it is only the first step for making the most of our family gatherings.

"One person can set up an irresistible standard of home life by a few unobtrusive personal habits. If you sit down to the table in a slack, easy going way as much as to say, 'It doesn't matter much; there is no company present,' the young people will very likely come in the same way, with no regard for their toilet. Perhaps with no regard for their toilet. Perhaps conversation will be boisterous, and the meal will be eaten as hastily as possible to leave time to prepare for some entertain-ment, but if you attach some ceremony to

But what would my tired out husband may if I asked him to come to dinner in a dress suit?" asked one of the group. "For my part, I believe home should be a place where a man can enjoy freedom from fash-

"It is no fad. If it seems too much trou-ble for a small result to get into dress suits, ble for a small result to get into dress suits, compromise by asking your husband to wear a Tuxedo and your boys to put on Eatons. It will hardly take a minute to change the tie. See that your own dress is in harmony with dinner etiquette. The system of the Euglish household teaches children good manners at home as well as abroad, and I am convinced that this habit of dressing for dinner, of making it an important event in the day's routine, inculnates self respect. The younger boys will adopt better nuanners by this bit of ceremoniousness in the matter of dress, and among niousness in the matter of dress, and among the remarkable changes resulting conversa-tion will become more cultured, dinner will not be eaten so hastily, and the hour will be oncof mingled rest and pleasure."— Brooklyn Eagle.

The Contentment of Motherhood.

What is the happiest moment of a woman's life? As maiden or as wife? This question can best be answered by those who have reached the pinnacle of old age and can look back with unprejudiced eyes upon the past. If we go to the elderly matron and say: "At what time was life fullest to you?" Was it before marriage, when the homage of a lover created romance in your young days, or during the weeks of the honeymoon, when new and old struggled together and the struggled togeth weeks of the honeymoon, when new and old struggled together and the startled and delighted heart hardly knew whether it was moved most to pain or pleasure by the sweet, new experience of ever present love, or in those latter days when, the novelty of wedded life over, you settled down to the cares and pleasures of a home and a growing family of children?" If you say this, we ask what will the answer oftenest be? "The years of early wifehood and young motherhood brought me the deepest joy. Though they were marked by many trials, they were glided with a freshness of enjoyment that made toll easy and responsibility light." And it is strange how true this is. As girls we have seen young couples in their new made homes neurishing and petting the first offspring of their love and wondered sometimes why the mother's eva betrayed so much secret contentment when work was so plenty and care so unceasing. Then the babe! A commonplace object enough when it is your neighbor's child, but what a wonder, what an unspeakable wonder, when it carries your own blood in its veins and smiles—did ever a baby smile before?—with just that brightness you have seen round its father's lips at times and which has grown so dear! Ah, young mothers know all we would say and all we would say and all we would have them infer, and only young mothers, for though with maturing years come profounder emotions there is a touching quality in the feelings that cluster about the firstborn child which is experienced but once.—Exchange.

Where Many Mothers Fail.

A woman's first duty is always to her family, yet she need not make herself a social nonenity in consequence of fulfilling to the very highest degree the exactions of her office. It is in this that many loving, de-voted mothers make a sad mistake. They voted mothers make a sad mistake. Unhappy Rich Maidens.

Worse off than the match girls or even the omnibus men of London are the unmarried daughters of the rich people living in the London suburbs. Without a vocation in life, devoid of aim or object in existence, there are no greater sufferers than the daughters of the middle class, who are too well off to work too idla to excell in any or well off to work, too idle to excel in art or in music and too selfish to take in hand the welfare of their poorer fellow subjects, and to share with them the good things they enjoy in superfluity.

The excess of women over men in London is remarkable for the fact that whereas the is remarkable for the fact that whereas the husbands and the brothers work many if not most of the young women are idle. Many of them can never be married and have therefore no hope of escape from the vegetable lives they load.

The type of elderly young women whose fathers are well to do, and who are unwilling or unable to break down the barrier that divides them from the realities and the rationalities of life, are often most miserably unhappy.—Mrs. Arnold White.

A Woman Who Was a Spy.

A Woman Who Was a spy.

In the American Revolution the preservation of Washington's army, massed at Valley Forge, was due to the prompt action and the fearlessness of the Quakeress, Lydia Darrah. She played the part of a spy, incurring the penalty which is always meted our for such an offense. Listening at the keyhole of a door behind which the adjutant general, Howe, narrated the plan of a contemplated surprise, she obtained permission to leave the city at daybreak, ostensibly to go to mill, and then carried the tidings to Washington at White Marsh. When the British approached, with all caution and wariness, they found the enfeebled troops on the aleri and ready for the attack. This, in view of the enemy's superior numbers, the British dared not risk, and they returned to Philadelphia without having fired a gun.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

The Need of Quiet Hours.

The Need of Quiet Hours.

A paper recently read at a conference of women was on "Quiet Hours" and set forth the importance of "reflection as an element of true activity," urging the avoidance of the error of looking on action as the only form of work.

"We all need ripening hours," says the writer. "We cannot give out what we have not taken. We cannot comfort if we have not ourselves been comforted." Woman's Stumbling Block

If tomorrow women were placed in all respects on an equality with men-if they were permitted to sit in parliament, enter the jury box or ascend the bench—they would remain under subjection to superior mental or physical force so long as they crippled their physical, vital and mental constitutions by this one practice of culti-vating, under an atrocious view of what is beautiful, a form of body which reduces physical power and which is destructive of development of body, and thereby deadens mental capability.—Benjamin W. ENCYCLOPEDIA AND GAZETTEER. A Condensation of the Encyclopedia Britannica. Chamters's Encyclopedia etc. with the addition of Much Original Matter Treating of American Subjects. Illustrated with Eighty Full-page Colored Maps and Nearly Two Thousand Engravings. with the addition of Much. Original Matter. Treating of American Subjects. Illustrated with Eighty Full-page Colored Maps and Nearly Two Thousand Engravings.

SUMMARY: Never before has there been offered to the public a book of reference approaching this in completeness, compactness, or cheapness. It contains 720 pages of encyclopedic information concerning all branches of knowledge, comprising in a condensed form stripped of unnecessary verbiage, the very cream of the Encyclopedia Britannica and the latest edition or Chambers's Encyclopedia, with the addition of a great many American subjects found in neither of the larger encyclopedias. Besides being a comprehensive gazet eer of universal knowledge, it is also a complete Atlas of the World, containing eighty full-page maps. Some idea may be gained of the magnitude of this wonderful work and the vast number of subjects treated of, from the following figures: Number of pages, 720; total number of flowing figures: Number of pages, 720; total number of ines, 20,89); total number of words, 17,00,000; number of subjects, 18,000; total leight of columns in inches, 21,600; number of words for one cent, 3800. If the columns were placed end to end they would reach over one-third of a mile. Just think of 1800 feet of choice reading, compiled from the latest sources on 18,000 subjects of daily interest to everybody, for a sum per word that requires five figures to express the fraction, and so I unipage Map. Free, the whole forming the largest, latest and most complete Family Encyclopedia ever produced. The maps are corrected to date and beautifully colored by our celebrated patent plate process, to distinguish 'States and political boundaries. The ordinary price of an atlas aloue, containing these maps, would be at least as much as is asked for this entire book, of which they form but a single feature. Handsomely bound in cloth, with gold title, and side stamp, 800. With the Datty Times 3 mos. 65 00: 1 year, $11,95; with the Weekly, 1 Year, $3.30.

The Times-Mirror Company, Times Building, Los Angeles Public Opinion Decidedly in Favor of the Measure-An Interesting Point to Prospective Settlers-General

The proposal to bond the county to the extent of $300,000 for internal improvements is being thoroughly discussed. The consensus of popular opinion appears to be distinctly in favor of the same. A great advantage was gained in behalf of the measure by taking the precaution to specify the character as vell as the localities in which public improvements will be inaugurated as soon as the money for the same becomes available through the sale of bonds.

A most interesting point for the prospective settler is the agricultural experiment station established near Bakersfield. The station is in charge of an European expert of established reputation, and several years' practical experience in this State. Most effective preliminary work has already been completed. It was the present Mayor of Chicago who stated in Los Angeles, a year ago, that California is a bit of Asia which somehow has be-come detached from its original moor-ings. However that may be, it is true that a visit to the experiment station will surprise the investigator with the varieties of grain growing successfully alongside of each other that hail respectively from the Himalayas, Pales tine and Japan, all seeming to be equally thristy. Original samples of cuttings of table grapes from the Mediterrean, berries and vegetables from North Germany, etc., are all being tested, and some valuable experience will ultimately be collected there, in which all the settlers of this great valley will share.

One of the little-known resources of Kern county is our oil deposits. They are distant some thirty-five miles in a southwesterly direction, located near the angle made by the junction of the San Emidio and the coast hill ranges. Oil similar in quality to that of the New hall district is being pumped daily. New wells are being bored, and a refinery is in course of erection. What is needed is a foothill branch line railroad, which would greatly benefit that whole locality.

One of the most important public improvements in the whole San Joaquin Valley is the construction of a great stone levee on the east shores of Buena Vista Lake. The lake itself describes an oblong shore-line some twenty-five miles in circumference. At the eastern shores of this body of water has been erected a stone levee five miles in length and twenty-five feet in height. This wall is elliptical in form, has a width at the central foundation of 187 feet; sloping pyramid-like to the top, it maintains a width of twelve feet in its entire length on the surface. The amount of filling required may be inferred from the fact that it inferred from the fact that it was found necessary to build a special narrow gauge railroad ten miles in length to convey the material of stone and gravel required. The enterprise will have cost close to $500,000 when completed. Buena Vista Lake will then constitute one of the greatest reservoirs in the world. It will make immediately available many townships in the most productive land in the State located to the east and south of the lake, formerly subject to overflow from it, which the levee men-tioned will prevent, and it will also afford irrigation facilities for large areas located below the reservoir, hitherto lacking that invaluable adjunct.

This important enterprise is the joint undertaking of the Kern County Land Company and the Messrs. Lux and Miller. Besides the all important eco-nomical purposes subserved by this im-mense reservoir, the beautiful sheet of water thus made available at the imme-diate eastern base of the Coast range, inclosing this great valley, is certain in due time to become a pleasure resort of great attractiveness.

It is safe to assert that real estate matters never presented a more active and encouraging prospect in this valley Railroad extensions are in the air, and, in the language of the much abused prospector, 'now is the time to get on to the ground floor,' manent offices here adjacent to the postoffice.
The Methodist Episcopal Church,

South, of Bakersfield is to be credited with one of the largest and most taste-fully constructed houses of worship so far erected in the Kern Valley. It was opened for service on Sunday, April 9.
The center of our asphaltum deposits,
Asphalta, not satisfied with present achievements as the leading producer of pavement material for this part of the State, has gone into furnishing dime museum specimens. Her latest sample is a burro that opens switches and occasionally derails a freight train. A dozen exasperated, but unharmed, pas-sengers in the cacoose, who should have arrived in Bakersfield for early dinner, and did not get here before after bed time; all on account of that burro meddling with switches, can tes-tify to the literal truth of this state-

Holes in the Drinking Cups.

[New York Times.]
Every tin drinking cup in the police stations of this city now has a hole punched in its bottom. The police com-missioners wondered at the disappearance of so many cups some time ago and caused an investigation to be made This showed that the policemen were in ed that the policemen were in the habit of carrying cups of water to their sleeping rooms to quench their thirst during the night. In this way the cups were mislaid and never returned to their proper places. Many remedies were suggested, but without avail. The were tied with chains and strings, cups were tied with chains and strings, but they continued to disappear. At last an ingenious member of the department suggested punching a hole in the bottom of every cup. Then it would be impossible for them to hold water any length of time. The inventer did not secure a patent, and in all the station bouses his plan has been adopted

Wall Paper.

Wall Paper.
[Good Housekeeping.]
Generally speaking, little attention is given to the brightening up of wall paper; when it becomes soiled and worn it is replaced, and that is perhaps the most satisfactory course. It can be greatly improved by rubbing gently with a soft cloth dipped in oatmeal. The cloth must be changed as often as it becomes loaded with the dirt removed from the paper, otherwise it will befoul instead of cleaning.

WHY HORSES GO LAME.

Evils Caused by Improper Shoeing-Pointers for Blacksmiths. ers for Blacksmiths.

To the Editor: I have four horses which I work in light teaming. Two of them go lame every time they are shod. The horseshoer I patronize is accounted a first-class blacksmith, but something is wrong. Can you give me any point-ers on the subject? TEAMSTER. Answer-It is found that most foot maladies, resulting from horseshoeing, are due to an uneven and unbalanced wall (all that part of the hoof that is visible below the hair when the foot is placed upon the ground) in connection with an undue height of heel. If the heels are allowed to grow too high the greater part of the weight is thrown forward upon the bone structure of the limb and the bones of the foot are forced forward against the wall in Inflammation of the foot and soreness in the joints and bones soon follow such a course. If the toes, on the contrary, are allowed to grow too long, then the preponderence of weight is thrown the flexor tendons, which are on back side of the foot, and these upon the tendons become inflamed. The hoofs must, therefore, be pared in such a way that the weight of the animal is equally distributed between the bones and flexor tendons. If one heel is permitted to grow higher than the other, bruises on the high heel, called corns, will result. Horses with weak, tender or bruised soles may for a time require leather or waterproof pads, but as the sole grows these should be discontinued. They are never re-quired in healthy feet where the sole, which is the best and most natural protection, is allowed to grow undisturbed by the knife. Horses with corns should have their shoes made with a wide inside web, which rests upon the bars, or have for a time the bar shoe. The last nail on the inside should also be dis-pensed with and the seat of the corn or bruise carefully pared out without in-juring either the frog or bars. Groggy horses should have the toe shortened and turned up, and the shoes made light and nicely fitted. Over-reach or cutting of the heel of the fore-foot with the shoe of the hind foot is remedled by filing around the posterior edge of the offending toe and keeping that shoe as far back as possible on the foot.

These points were derived from the article on horseshoeing found on page 859, volume 12, of THE TIMES edition of G M Bergen et ux to C E Brooks, lot 4, Bixby tract, $1600.

$1, E Washburn's Subdivision (42-68,) sample, on any topic you can bring for-ward. The best of it is, the informa-tion is correct; it is the result of years of experience, education and observation of men who have made the topics they write upon their life work. And it is all yours for 10 cents a day. Re-member that only four days remain.

The Pope Loses a Legacy.
[Sketch.]
The Pope has lost a fortune. The Marquise de Plessis-Belliere left her immense fortune to His Holiness, and, failing him, to Cardinal Rampolla. The heirs-at-law disputed the will, and the Amiens Appeal Court has decided in their favor on three curious grounds.

They are:
First—That it would be dangerous to the public safety if the rights of a foreign sovereign to possess property in France was recognized, as the said sovereign might purchase canals and railways, or estates close to fortresses. Second—That since 1870 the Pope cannot be regarded as an ordinary sovereign. He is now only the represent-ative of a collectivity incapable of ac-quiring property, namely, Christianity, Third—The recognition of the Pope's right of inheritance would permit of many legacies being willed in trust to unrecognized congregations. The result therefrom might constitute an accumulation of wealth dangerous to the State
